POWERS SAVE YOUNG PLAN AS AGREEMENT REACHED AT MEETING

Long Reparations Controversy Ends At The Hague

THE HAGUE, Aug. 29.—The Young plan has been saved.

The five powers—Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and Japan—reached agreement with Germany today on the compromise plan whereby Great Britain's demands are met in great part.

Germany made the concessions asked of her and agreed to the plan reached by the five powers yesterday.

It was agreed evacuation of the Rhineland shall be completed at the end of next June.

The agreement marked the end of the final controversial stage of the greatest political and financial problem in history—the liquidation of the World War.

Minor problems, of course, remain to be settled, but the powers have at last attained common ground on the general points at issue, and method of handling them.

The agreement revises certain details of the distribution of Germany's payments under the Young plan, providing Great Britain with a larger proportion of the proceeds, including the unconditional payments. It also protects her to a certain extent against excessive payments in kind.

The agreement is complete, but it must be supplemented by a settlement of various financial questions, including who pays the costs of the Rhineland occupation after September 1 and until evacuation is completed.

The agreement stipulates that the Rhineland must be evacuated completely within eight months after the French and German parliaments have ratified the Young plan, and the French chamber of deputies has ratified the date of evacuation. In any case, however, evacuation must be completed not later than June 30 next.

The British, Belgian and French troops will begin evacuation of the second Rhineland zone next month. The idea of preserving a special demilitarized zone in the Rhineland under partial allied control was abandoned.

The agreement thus cleans up the vital political problems whose fate were in the balance.

BANK OF CLEVELAND ROBBED OF $1,500

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29.—Three bandits herded employees of the Bank of Cleveland into a rear room, took $1,500 and escaped here today.

The robbers, all well dressed, entered the bank at a time when there were no patrons present and only three employees.

John A. Bombrowski, secretary, Benjamin Backowski, cashier, and Alice Novak, clerk, were behind the cages.

Covering Bombrowski with a revolver, the gunmen's leader commanded him to "stick 'em up." The same order was given Miss Novak and Backowski.

The three were locked in a rear room by the two gunmen, while the third acted as lookout at the wheel of their car, a blue Buick sedan, in which they escaped.

Backowski opened a window and shouted for help. A neighbor telephoned Marshal Carl Dettman of Garfield Heights. He liberated the imprisoned bank employees.

The bank is in Garfield Heights, a Cleveland suburb.

Tyson's Successor?

Representative Cordell Hull, of Carthage, Tenn., former chairman of the Democratic national committee, is considered a likely successor to Senator Lawrence D. Tyson, of Tennessee, who died recently.

MRS. BOOLE COMES TO DEFENSE OF FORD

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 29.—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the national W. C. T. U., came to the defense of Henry Ford today, attacking Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler who questioned a recent statement of Ford's on prohibition.

"If Dr. Butler wants concrete proof of Henry Ford's prohibition views, he need go no farther than the school of business at Columbia University," she said, "where one professor said prohibition undoubtedly is diverting five thousand million dollars a year from drink to other commodities."

"Dr. Butler says prohibition is the greatest aid to the liquor traffic," she continued, "if so, why is liquor traffic the world over combining to keep prohibition from other lands and aiding in the propaganda to undermine it in America?"

TRUTH SEEKER IS STARVED TO DEATH

BOULDER, Colo., Aug. 29.—Chris Solbrig, 35, Chicago artist, model who became a member of the A. E. A. expedition to "seek truth" by fasting in mountain canyons, died in Meadow Park at Lyons, near here yesterday. Physicians ascribed his death to starvation.

Solbrig had fasted thirty-one days. He had worn no clothes while the fasters were at Camp Dix near here, earlier in the summer. Recently he had been living in a tent at Meadow Park. Five other members of the A. E. A. expedition are still fasting.

Solbrig, who normally weighed 140 pounds, had lost forty-five pounds since he began going without food.

FIND MAN'S BODY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 29.—Police today were attempting to identify the body of a middle-aged man found in a clump of bushes along the bank of Alum Creek here. An empty carbonic acid bottle was beside the body. The man apparently had been dead for two weeks.

NAVY PLANES WILL VISIT STATE FAIR; THURSDAY PEAK DAY

Governor Has Full Program At Fair Grounds

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 29.—All eyes at the state fair today were turned to the northward sky.

Thousands of early visitors anticipated the arrival of twelve navy fighting planes that were scheduled to fly from Cleveland to be reviewed by Governor Cooper.

Headed by David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy, the fliers planned to maneuver over the fair grounds, land later at Norton Field, and lunch with the governor in the clubhouse at the fair.

Today, known proverbially as "Peak Day," promised to uphold previous records, despite threatening skies.

Streets leading to the grounds were packed with automobiles early this morning. Trolley cars disgorged full loads every few minutes.

Governor Cooper was at the grounds early to face a full day's program.

An inspection of the grounds and exhibits, two addresses over the radio, review and reception of the navy fliers and a luncheon at the clubhouse were on the chief executive's schedule.

The navy fliers were expected to execute several stunts for the entertainment of the crowds before winging away to Norton Field to get ready for the luncheon.

Regular events were continued during the day. These included the art exhibits and plays in the woman's building, calling contests and dancing and fiddling competitions in the rural playhouse, judging of livestock in the coliseum and barns.

Harness races scheduled were the three-year-old trot for the governor's purse, three-year-old pace for stake, 2:18 pace and 2:18 trot. The day show continued to draw large numbers of fanciers.

John Vorys, state director of aeronautics, and Maj. Tom. Herbert, commander of the Ohio National Guard Air Service, will fly over the grounds to greet the navy ships.

Population of the tented city at the fair grounds climbed over the 1,000 mark today, with nearly 250 parties registered.

Daily happenings in the tented city are chronicled in a mimeographed newspaper issued by Miss Jessie Ruhlman, superintendent.

Jack Wainwright, maestro of the Fostoria High School Band, is one of the noted personalities at the state fair.

Wainwright is the leader of the 300-piece band, composed of picked musicians from Ohio high schools.

TWO PERISH WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

WAPAKONETA, O., Aug. 29.—Samuel Gwynn, 61, Mentor, Ky., and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jeanette Gwynn, 36, were burned to death, Gwynn's wife, Elizabeth, was burned perhaps fatally and two other members of the family were injured today when their Gwynn car collided with another machine at Botkins, near here, and burst into flames. The second car was driven by John Blossford, of Dayton, who, with four other occupants of his car, escaped unhurt.

'BYE, HOLIDAYS!

EMPLOYEES of Xenia stores took advantage of their last half-holiday of the Summer Wednesday.

The annual Summer half-holiday program, followed here during June, July and August, came to an end with Wednesday's half-day lay-off.

Another holiday comes Monday, when Labor Day is celebrated, as a full holiday by some concerns and as a half-holiday by others.

RELIGIOUS RIOTING GROWS

NINETEEN SLAIN AT HAIFA; PRESIDENT IS AMONG VICTIMS

British Troops Are Trying To Quell Fighting

JERUSALEM, Aug. 29.—Nineteen persons were killed in a new outbreak at the port of Haifa, it was reported here today. Eleven of the victims were Arab Moslems, six were Jews, two were Christians.

Large reinforcements of British troops from Malta were landed from a cruiser and immediately were pressed into service. They restored order after a brief struggle with the rioters.

CAIRO, Aug. 29.—The president of the municipality of Haifa was killed during a pitched battle between Arab Moslems and Jews, with British troops trying for hours to quell the riot. It was reported from Tiberias and Sablus, Palestine communities.

Sir John Chancellor, high commissioner of Palestine, landed at Port Said last night and today was enroute to Jerusalem to take charge of the most complicated colonial problem with which the British government has been faced in years.

According to reports reaching here the Palestine riots which broke out last Friday continued to rage in full fury. It was said in dispatches from Palestine that 600 villagers from the vicinity of Nabulus attempted to march upon Jerusalem yesterday to aid the Moslems there. Rioters of Haifa fired upon a train from Kantara, whereupon the authorities burned the houses from which the firing was suspected to have been done.

Meanwhile the Moslem fury against the Jews began to spread in lands bordering upon Palestine. It was reported from Beirut, Syria, that 10,000 demonstrators, in sympathy with their Moslem brethren in Palestine, paraded through the streets yesterday, carrying crosses and Moslem banner, bearing anti-Zionist inscriptions and shouting "Palestine for the Arabs."

French cavalry accompanied the paraders, who were headed by the grand mufti and by the bishop. The Jews of Beirut at the same time were reported to have expressed their unity with the Arabs.

Similar demonstrations were said to have taken place in other Syrian towns. In Damascus the shops remained closed and the demonstrations which had been going on for several days were renewed. It was reported from Damascus that the leader of one of the principal tribes was preparing to advance upon Jerusalem to "protect the mosque of Omar."

'FRISCO BULLETIN BOUGHT BY HEARST

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—The San Francisco Bulletin was sold yesterday to William Randolph Hearst.

The Bulletin, oldest daily in San Francisco, will suspend publication as a separate entity. Effective with the first edition today, it was merged with the Call, Hearst's evening newspaper, as the San Francisco Call-Bulletin.

Sale price was not announced, but was reported to be $1,000,000.

YOUNG COOLIDGE RENTS $78 HOUSE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 29.—John and Florence—former President Coolidge's son and Governor John H. Trumbull's daughter—have chosen their home, the New Haven Times said today.

It is a modest little rear apartment at Fairview Terrace in the suburbs of Westville.

John, it is said, has already signed a lease providing for $78 a month rental.

ECKENER MODERN MAGELLAN

Globe First Circled 400 Years Ago In More Than Three Years' Time

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—More than 400 years separated the around the world trip of the Graf Zeppelin and the first globe circling cruise, and that 400 years has brought about a lessening of the around the world travel time by three years and one week.

Dr. Hugo Eckener started from Lakehurst, N. J., at 11:40 a. m. on August 7 with sixty persons aboard the Graf Zeppelin. He returned to Lakehurst today with the full passenger list and had girdled the world in twenty-one days, seven hours and thirty-two minutes.

In that span of more than 400 years there have been many romantic conquests of the globe, including the fictitious trip of Pheleas Fogg in eighty days. That was the work of Jules Verne's nimble brain and even he didn't believe he ever would live to see his record broke, but he lived to greet Nellie Bly, New York newspaperwoman, when she chopped eight days from the fictitious travel time.

Magellan's trip took far more nerve than any of the others. He traveled sea passages which never before had been traveled. He first learned of the dread of the sea-scurvy. He encountered peoples who were unfriendly and even lost his life by arguing with a Philippine native.

After Magellan's feat there was a long period when no one would attempt the around the world tour. But Sir Francis Drake, desirous of plunder, and thinking that fertile fields lay far off from his native England, started on December 13, 1577, with five vessels and 164 men. The start was from Plymouth, England, and the cruise progressed well up to Drake's Bay, north of San Francisco and thence across the Indian Ocean. Drake returned to Plymouth in 1580 with only one of the five vessels with which he started.

From then on the race to chop down the around the world time started.

Thomas Cavendish started in 1586 around the world with three vessels and 123 men. He returned with one vessel and 18 men.

On June 16, 1926, Edward S. Evans and Linton Wells started around the world using steamships and airplanes. They finished the globe girdling in twenty-eight days, fourteen hours and thirty-six minutes.

Mears, who once held the record, hated to see modernity spoil his feat and with Captain C. B. D. Collier started an around the world cruise in 1928. They flew

ENDURANCE FLYERS CLAIMING INTEREST AT NATIONAL RACES

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29.—The Graf Zeppelin gone and the Los Angeles preparing to go back to Lakehurst, Cleveland returned today to the regular business of the week—watching the national air races.

The dirigibles having had their day, endurance fliers claimed chief interest.

Three fliers, one of them a woman, planned to take off in efforts to lower present solo endurance records.

Another endurance attempt had come to grief—that of Capt. Ira Eaker, of Question Mark fame, whose plane was forced down last night when a can of oil crashed through a wing of his plane in a refueling attempt. Captain Eaker had hoped to fly across the continent six times without stopping. He had accomplished the feat once and started back when disaster overtook him.

Lieut. Newton Longfellow in the refueling plane had transferred 250 gallons of gasoline to Eaker's plane and was dangling a can of oil from the end of a rope when it fell.

Eaker landed safely.

The woman who will start an endurance flight today was Mae Hazlip, Tulsa, who participated in the women's derby. She will aim at the record now held by Miss Elinor Smith of New York, which is slightly more than twenty-six hours.

The two men seeking solo endurance records are Ralph F. Thomas, Cleveland, who will fly a Stinson plane and Thomas Reid, Downey, Calif., in an Emcoev. The men's record is thirty-five hours, set by Lieut. Herbert Fahy.

Two races, glider contests, parachute jumping and "dead stick" landing competition completed the day's attractions.

Many Clevelanders were late to work today because they stayed out in the cold until midnight to glimpse the Graf Zeppelin, many hours behind its original schedule.

Below the Graf as it sailed the length of the airport, the Los Angeles, glinting in the rays of a searchlight, lay an anchor at the stub mast. The naval craft heaved with the wind as phonograph records kept the 40,000 spectators cheered up while craning their necks to the sky watching for the Zeppelin to poke its blunt nose into the shaft of one of the many lights searching the air.

The Zeppelin, going from Detroit to Lakehurst, did not pause or circle the field. It speeded straight down the center of the airport about 1,500 feet in the air, proceeded south and veered toward Akron.

Even before darkness fell last night, crowds began streaming through the two-by-four scantling gates to see the Graf. Virtually all of the 100,000 who saw the Los Angeles arrived today and the service planes go through their antics, had gone home to dinner at the conclusion of the race program.

About the time the regular program was over, the concessions ran out of hot dogs. Soda pop and near beer ran low. Hurried calls were sent to Cleveland for food and drink to appease appetites and throats filled with dust.

As night came on the flood lights of the field were switched on and the entire airport was bathed in a glare. Beacon lights revolved every few seconds, their rays flashing off the silver sides of the Los Angeles as it lay moored to the stub mast.

Shortly afterwards, the engineers turned on the 3,000,000 candle power search lights to try them out. The shafts of light shot far out into the darkness and occasionally picked up a solitary airplane.

Passengers in the future will be transferred from these liners by hangars attached to the underside of the keel, Lieut. Bolster said.

REPORT LADY HEATH HURT

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29.—Lady Mary Heath, famed flyer, was injured seriously today when her plane crashed through the roof of a house in Euclid Village.

Erwin Kirk, her mechanic, was slightly cut. Physicians said Lady Mary's recovery is doubtful. The cause of the crash was not learned at once.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 29.—Greenville bid for and won two-fold recognition yesterday at the state fair here and established a record which may not be surpassed for years.

The honors went to horses flying the Greenville colors, first to a team owned by George Wilcox of Greenville which won the fair heavy pulling contest, and second to horses owned by Ralph Betts which won the lighter pulling tourney.

Wilcox's horses equaled the world's heavy pulling record at the Ray County, Ind., fair last week, towing 3,500 pounds for the required Purdue dynamometer distance of twenty-seven feet. Yesterday the horses bent into their harness with a load of 3,300 pounds.

Betts' horses won the "light" title by towing 2,800 pounds a distance of twenty-two feet, ten inches. Betts' horses also won the 1928 championship.

Ten teams competed in the heavy pull and fourteen in the lightweight division. Thousands of persons stormed the coliseum to see the contests.

Second place in the heavy team division was won by the Hole Farm Company, Versailles, which won the title last year, and third place went to John Derry of Sonoma.

Red Row, Portland, Ind., was second in the light class and third place went to the Derry.

Other pulling contests were on the program today.

MODERN RIP SLEEPS AS BOMB EXPLODES

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 29.—Herman Miller may have had a lot of trouble in his seventy-three years but insomnia could never have been one of them.

When a black powder bomb exploded on the front porch of an unoccupied residence, the porch was wrecked and every window shattered. But police who answered the call of frightened neighbors found Herman sleeping peacefully in a nest of newspapers on the second floor.

The bombed building was directly behind the home of Rufus C. Daves, brother of the ambassador to Great Britain.

IRONTON, O., Aug. 29.—The Ironton Public Service Company, a new concern composed of Ironton business men, has purchased the franchise and property of the Ohio Valley Electric Railway Company, including its rolling stock.

DIRIGIBLE SAFE AT LAKEHURST HANGAR AFTER FAST FLIGHT

Circles Globe In 21 Days; Repair Damage To Tail

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 29.—The Graf Zeppelin roared into view here today at 6:52 a. m. EST, completing the first commercial circumnavigation of the world by air.

All man's records for globe circling since Magellan discovered the path around the sphere had fallen before her. The Graf returned a champion.

Just twenty-one days, seven hours and twelve minutes had elapsed since the craft left here at 11:40 p. m. EST, August 7 to prove that the oceanic airways of the world and the sky above broad continents would become pathways of commerce.

The Graf came in low from the northwest, circled the western end of the hangar and swung around to the other end of the field to be hauled down, made fast and walked into shelter preparatory to the return to Friedrichshafen scheduled for Sunday or Monday.

Radio channels, telegraph wires and cable lines radiating from the hangar had carried the news of the Graf's record breaking feat around the world while the giant craft still was beyond the pine trees fringing the field.

The world circling record broken by the Graf was established in 1927 by John Henry Mears and Charles B. D. Collier. They used planes, boats and trains to make the journey in twenty-three days and fifteen hours and twenty-one and three tenths minutes.

The landing maneuver had duplicated the perfection of the Graf's previous arrival here. American officers remarked on the skill with which the German airmen had brought their ship to ground.

The drone of the motors began dying as Eckener nosed his ship into the wind east of the hangar. Almost imperceptibly she lost way until at a height of 250 feet, the Graf was motionless except for the spin of her idling propellers.

The nose dipped and then the tail. The Graf leveled off, having approached some twenty-five feet nearer the ground. Time and again as customs men started aboard, but state police and marines firmly kept them back to permit maneuvering the ship into the hangar.

Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, former commander of the navy's dirigible Los Angeles and Lieut. Jack Richardson, the Los Angeles navigator, both guests on the trip, were the first off the Zeppelin.

The Graf was walked into the hangar and came to rest on the shelter at 7:12 a. m. E. S. T. For 10,000 persons were assembled on the station to see the completion of the epochal flight. Awe and almost silent they gazed upon the last act of a typically modern drama. Fewer than twenty years ago the world was applauding the bravery of Louis Blériot who had dared death in a rickety monoplane to fly across the English Channel.

Thousands of those assembled here today were old enough to have scoffed at the modest claims of Wilbur and Orville Wright that they had accomplished momentarily flight at Kitty Hawk in a

WEALTHY MAN HELD ON OLD DEBTOR LAW

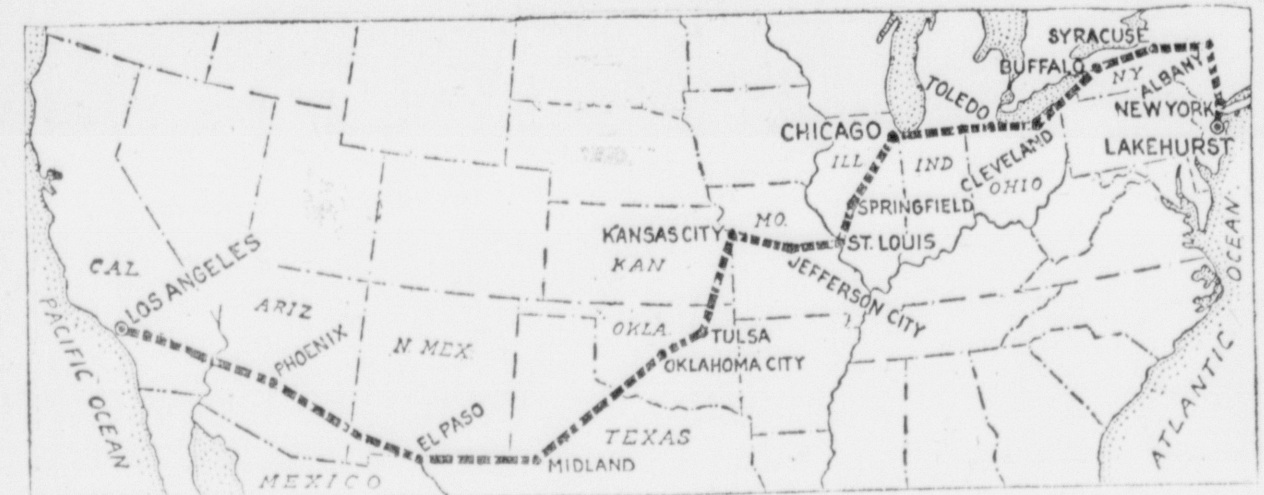

CANTON, O., Aug. 29.—Alexander Dimichele, reputedly wealthy former owner of the Hudson Fireworks Company, was in Stark County Jail here today under the old debtor act providing for imprisonment of persons who refuse under certain conditions to pay civil judgments returned against him.

Dimichele was arrested on affidavit of E. L. Mills, attorney for Thomas Brenner, nine-year-old Canton boy who holds a judgment for $35,000 against Dimichele and the Stark County agricultural society. The boy was awarded a $35,000 for loss of a hand and an eye last summer in an explosion after a fireworks exhibit at the county fair.

Mills charges Dimichele transferred his business so that execution might not be levied.

From then on the race to chop down the around the world time started.

Thomas Cavendish started in 1586 around the world with three vessels and 123 men. He returned with one vessel after traveling two years and fifty days.

Then Captain James Cook in 1771 made a globe girdling tour in three years and eighteen days with the loss of only one man. This was marvelous as just a few years prior Captain George Anson started with 259 men and the entire expedition was lost.

It was in 1872 that Jules Verne composed his "Around the World in Eighty Days." The book was a best seller and tickled the fancy of everyone but no one, least of all Verne, thought the thing was possible.

The late Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the New York World, got to thinking about it and in 1889 assigned Nellie Bly—the first newspaper "sch sister"—to break the record of Verne's fictitious Fogg. Nellie Bly stopped and chatted with Verne in England on the way about and then rushed around the world completing the tour in seventy-two days, six hours and eleven minutes.

In 1890 George Francis Train cut that time to sixty-seven days and twelve hours.

In 1901 Charles Fitzmaurice cut the time to sixty days and thirteen hours.

In 1903 Henry Frederick cut the time to fifty-four days and seven hours.

In 1907 Col. Burnley Campbell cut the time to forty days and nine hours.

In 1911 Andre Jaeger Schmidt cut the time to thirty-nine days and twelve hours.

In 1913 John Henry Mears cut the time to thirty-five days.

ECKENER MODERN MAGELLAN

Globe First Circled 400 Years Ago In More Than Three Years' Time

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—More than 400 years separated the around the world trip of the Graf Zeppelin and the first globe circling cruise, and that 400 years has brought about a lessening of the around the world travel time by three years and one week.

Dr. Hugo Eckener started from Lakehurst, N. J., at 11:40 p. m. August 7 with sixty persons aboard the Graf Zeppelin. He returned to Lakehurst today with the full passenger list and had girdled the world in twenty-one days, seven hours and thirty-two minutes.

In that span of more than 400 years there have been many romantic conquests of the globe, including the fictitious trip of Pheasant Fogg in eighty days. That was the work of Jules Verne's nimble brain and even he didn't believe he ever would live to see his record broken, but he lived to greet Nellie Bly, New York newspaperwoman, when she chopped eight days from the fictitious travel time.

Magellan's trip took far more nerve than any of the others. He traveled sea passages which never before had been traveled. He first learned of the dread of the sea-scurvy. He encountered peoples who were unfriendly and even lost his life by arguing with a Philippine native.

After Magellan's feat there was a long period when no one would attempt the around the world tour. But Sir Francis Drake, desirous of more plunder, and thinking that fertile fields lay far off from his native England, started on December 13, 1577, with five vessels and 164 men. The start was from Plymouth, England, and the cruise progressed well up to Drake's Bay, north of San Francisco and thence across the Indian Ocean. Drake returned to Plymouth in 1580 with only one of the five vessels with which he started.

From then on the race to chop down the around the world time started.

Thomas Cavendish started in 1586 around the world with three vessels and 123 men. He returned with one vessel after traveling two years and fifty days.

Then Captain James Cook in 1771 made a globe girdling tour in three years and eighteen days with the loss of only one man. This was marvelous as just a few years prior Captain George Anson started with 259 men and the entire expedition was lost.

It was in 1872 that Jules Verne composed his "Around the World in Eighty Days." The book was a best seller and tickled the fancy of everyone but no one, least of all Verne, thought the thing was possible.

The late Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the New York World, got to thinking about it and in 1889 assigned Nellie Bly—the first newspaper "sch sister"—to break the record of Verne's fictitious Fogg. Nellie Bly stopped and chatted with Verne in England on the way about and then rushed around the world completing the tour in seventy-two days, six hours and eleven minutes.

In 1890 George Francis Train cut that time to sixty-seven days and twelve hours.

In 1901 Charles Fitzmaurice cut the time to sixty days and thirteen hours.

In 1903 Henry Frederick cut the time to fifty-four days and seven hours.

In 1907 Col. Burnley Campbell cut the time to forty days and nine hours.

In 1911 Andre Jaeger Schmidt cut the time to thirty-nine days and twelve hours.

In 1913 John Henry Mears cut the time to thirty-five days.

Then came aviation. The United States army flying team completed a world cruise in 1926 in 363 actual flying hours, (a trifle more than fifteen days) but they were gone for six months, being held up by accidents and bad weather.

ENDURANCE FLYERS CLAIMING INTEREST AT NATIONAL RACES

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29.—The Graf Zeppelin gone and the Los Angeles preparing to go back to Lakehurst, Cleveland returned today to the regular business of the week—watching the national air races.

The dirigibles having had their day, endurance fliers claimed chief interest.

Three fliers, one of them a woman, planned to take off in efforts to lower present solo endurance records.

Another endurance attempt had come to grief—that of Capt. Ira Eaker, of Question Mark fame, whose plane was forced down last night when a can of oil crashed through a wing of his plane in a refueling attempt. Captain Eaker and hoped to fly across the continent six times without stopping. He had accomplished the feat once and started back when disaster overtook him.

Lieut. Newton Longfellow in the refueling plane had transferred 250 gallons of gasoline to Eaker's plane and was dangling a can of oil from the end of a rope when it fell. Eaker landed safely.

The woman who will start an endurance flight today was Mae Hailip, Tulsa, who participated in the women's derby. She will aim at the record now held by Miss Elinor Smith of New York, which is slightly more than twenty-six hours.

The two men seeking solo endurance records are Ralph F. Thomas, Cleveland, who will fly a Stinson plane and Thomas Reid, Downey, Calif., in an Emco. The men's record is thirty-five hours, set by Lieut. Herbert Faby.

Two races, glider contests, parachute jumping and "dead stick" landing competition completed the day's attractions.

Many Clevelanders were late to

REPORT LADY HEATH HURT

LADY MARY HEATH

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29.—Lady Mary Heath, famed flyer, was injured seriously today when her plane crashed through the roof of a house in Euclid Village.

Erwin Kirk, her mechanic, was slightly cut. Physicians said Lady Mary's recovery is doubtful. The cause of the crash was not learned at once.

The Graf came in low from the northwest, circled the western end of the hangar and swung around to the other end of the field to be hauled down, made fast and walked into shelter preparatory to the return to Friedrichshafen scheduled for Sunday or Monday.

Radio channels, telegraph wires and cable lines radiating from the hangar had carried the news of the Graf's record breaking feat around the world while the giant craft still was beyond the pine trees fringing the field.

The world circling record broken by the Graf was established in 1927 by John Henry Mears and Charles B. D. Collier. They used planes, boats and trains to make the journey in twenty-three days and fifteen hours and twenty-one and three tenths minutes.

The landing maneuver had duplicated the perfection of the Graf's previous arrival here. American officers remarked on the skill with which the German airmen had brought their ship to ground.

The drone of the motors began dying as Eckener nosed his ship into the wind east of the hangar. Almost imperceptibly she lost way until at a height of 250 feet, the Graf was motionless except for the spin of her idling propellers.

The nose dipped and then the tail. The Graf leveled off, having approached some twenty-five feet nearer the ground. Time and again the maneuver was repeated until at 100 feet the nose hawser shot through a nose port, the end spreading into a score of hand lines. Marines and sailors seized the ropes while other hawsers dropped to them aft.

Thrones tried to press in upon the ship as it came to earth and as customs men started aboard, but state police and marines firmly kept them back to permit maneuvering the ship into the hangar.

Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, former commander of the navy's dirigible Los Angeles, and Lieut. Jack Richardson, the Los Angeles navigator, both guests on the trip, were the first off the Zeppelin.

The Graf was walked into the hangar and came to rest beneath the shelter at 7:42 a. m. E. S. T. Fully 10,000 persons were assembled on the station to see the completion of the epochal flight. Awd and almost silent they gazed upon the last act of a typically modern drama. Fewer than twenty years ago the world was applauding the bravery of Louis Bleriot who had dared death in a rickety monoplane to fly across the English Channel.

Thousands of those assembled here today were old enough to have scoffed at the modest claims of Wilbur and Orville Wright that they had accomplished momentarily by flight at Kitty Hawk in a

MODERN RIP SLEEPS AS BOMB EXPLODES

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 29.—Herman Miller may have had a lot of trouble in his seventy-three years but insomnia could never have been one of them.

When a black powder bomb exploded on the front porch of an unoccupied residence, the porch was wrecked and every window shattered. But police who answered the call of frightened neighbors found Herman sleeping peacefully in a nest of newspapers on the second floor.

The bombed building was directly behind the home of Rufus C. Dawes, brother of the ambassador to Great Britain.

AUTOS DESTROYED

WILLARD, O., Aug. 29.—Eleven automobiles valued at several thousand dollars, were destroyed when fire swept the Public Garage here.

TRANSFER PASSENGER FROM BLIMP TO PLANE

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 29.—For the first time in the history of aviation, a transfer of a passenger from a dirigible to an airplane was made for practical purposes, at a height of 1,000 feet at the races late yesterday.

Thousands gazed upward at the Los Angeles and noticed a plane, like a tiny buzzing insect in comparison, come within fifteen feet of the keel of the ship, and then dive down only to zoom again and hook a trapeze thrown out from the bottom of the dirigible.

The plane, a regulation navy bi-plane, was piloted by Lieut. A. W. Gorton. Lieut. Calvin Bolster climbed out of the Los Angeles, walked along the wing of the plane and descended into the cockpit.

The purpose of the demonstration was to show what will be done with the new navy dirigible now under construction in Akron.

Passengers in the future will be transferred from these liners by hangars attached to the underside of the keel, Lieut. Bolster said.

WEALTHY MAN HELD ON OLD DEBTOR LAW

CANTON, O., Aug. 29.—Alexander Dimichele, reputedly wealthy former owner of the Hudson Fireworks Company, was in Stark County Jail here today under the musty judgment debtor act providing for imprisonment of persons who refuse under certain conditions to pay civil judgments returned against him.

Dimichele was arrested on affidavit of E. L. Mills, attorney for Thomas Bremer, nine-year-old Canton boy who holds a judgment for $35,000 against Dimichele and the Stark County agricultural society. The boy was awarded the $35,000 for loss of a hand and an eye last summer in an explosion after a fireworks exhibit at the county fair.

Mills charges Dimichele transferred his business so that execution might not be levied.

JEFFERSON TWP. SCHOOLS TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY MORNING

Jefferson Twp. Centralized Schools will open for the 1929-30 term of school, Monday morning, September 2, at 9 o'clock it is announced.

The usual assembly exercises will be held in the auditorium, and all parents and friends of the school are invited to be present. After the assembly, the children will be assigned to rooms and teachers will register pupils and assign work for following day. School will be dismissed at 11 a. m.

No books should be purchased by parents for children until the teacher gives the pupil the list of books needed. No book changes will be made this year only where the start of change was made in previous year, or where the state department is asking for new courses. As the high school pupils were registered last spring, the matter of organizing the high school will be a simple matter this year.

The following teachers will be in charge this year:

L. H. Downing, principal of high school; Lella LeMar, English and Latin; Thelma Fisher, home economics and English; Wiley Manker, mathematics and science; Robert Ross, fifth and sixth grades; Lucile Garringer, fourth and fifth grades; Gladys Bales, second and third grades; Mary Morris, first and second grades; Dona Clare Shelley, music, two days per week; C. A. Devoe, superintendent.

Ralph Lewis continues as janitor.

The following will drive school buses:

Easiest Way To Put Up Pickles

The busy house wife makes every moment count; here is something new that saves time and money. Get a 30c package of Grandma Kuhn's Picklesweet, ready for use, at your drug or grocery store. It contains just the right amount of spices, salt, saccharine and alum. Add the contents to 1/2 gallon good cider vinegar and you are ready for 50 to 100 pickles or 1/2 gallon catsup. Full directions for catsup, mustard and dill pickles on every package.

Makes the Best Pickles
You Ever Ate!
To insure your pickles keeping and being just right, be sure you get the original and genuine Grandma Kuhn's Picklesweet and good cider vinegar. Or by mail postpaid. H. DALE KUHN LAB. ORATORY, SHELBY, OHIO. adv.

Five demonstration units such as the one pictured here have spent months touring the State demonstrating that Sohio Ethyl does stop knocks.

THOUSANDS HAVE WATCHED THIS ENGINE PROVE THAT—there is a difference in gasoline

THE demonstration itself is simple. An electric knock-detecting device is attached to the engine.

Ordinary gasoline is run into the carburetor. The engine, choked with carbon, starts. Immediately knocking commences. The electric light flashes. The audience hears the knock—sees the knock.

Then the fuel is changed to Sohio Ethyl, without stopping the motor. Almost instantly the knocking stops. It's the Ethyl brand of anti-knock compound that does it! The light goes out. The motor picks up speed—proof of its increased power—runs more smoothly and more evenly.

The simple sincerity of this test has made Sohio users of thousands of Ohio motorists. Other thousands have chosen Sohio Ethyl after making their own tests in their own cars. See the Sohio anti-knock demonstration if you have an opportunity. If not, put Sohio Ethyl into your own gasoline tank and test it any way you wish. Convince yourself that there IS a difference in gasoline.

MARRIAGE OF H. S. TEACHER ANNOUNCED

Miss Ruth Brackney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brackney, living near Wilmington, was married to Mr. Oren H. Smith, of Flint, Mich., in Columbus, Tuesday, according to announcement. Miss Brackney has for the last two years been a member of the faculty of the Spring Valley High School. The marriage was a surprise to friends of the couple.

Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smith, of Gurneyville. He is a graduate of the College of Commerce, Ohio State University, and since his graduation, has been connected with a firm in Flint, Mich., where he and his bride will live.

They will go to that city the last of the week after a visit with relatives in this vicinity.

CENTRAL HIGH CLASS HAS ANNUAL REUNION

Members of the class of 1925 of Central High School, recalled high school days when they met for their annual reunion at Kilcare Park Wednesday evening. A picnic supper was enjoyed at tables set on the veranda of the dancing pavilion, and there were decorations in royal blue and silver, the class colors. After supper dancing was enjoyed in the park pavilion.

Those attending were: Misses Pauline Nash, Mary Carolyn Smith, Marjorie Weddle, Elizabeth Bickett, Marjorie Street, Louise Wood, Messrs. Clark Eckerle, Paul Spahr, Lewis Buell, Vernon Hickman, Clark Ellis, John Perkins, Carl McDaniel, William Spahr and Lawrence Minshall, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bone, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wooley.

RETURN HOME AFTER LONG MOTOR TRIP

Attorney S. W. Whitmer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cross and Miss Winifred Cross are home after a 5,000-mile motor trip to Yellowstone Park. They were gone three weeks.

The trip was marred by one slight accident, Mr. Cross turning the car into a ditch in order to avoid a collision with another automobile which attempted a passing on a sharp curve. None of the party was injured and the machine, which turned over on its side, was slightly damaged. Their car also ran out of water while they were crossing the Wyoming desert, but they were able to borrow a quart to get them out of the arid district, from a man who hauled his water supply twenty-five miles. The quart of water they eked out with a small quantity scooped from a mud hole at the edge of the desert.

MISS HUGHES WEDS MR. WAYNE PERSINGER

The marriage of Miss Helen Cleo Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Hughes, Washington Pike, near Jamestown, to Mr. Wayne Albert Persinger, was solemnized at the parsonage of the Church of Christ, Jamestown at 9:30 Wednesday morning. The Rev. H. S. Snyder, pastor of the bridal pair, officiated.

The bride was attractive in a frock of orchid georgette, with orchid hat, and white footwear. Mrs. W. C. Hughes, mother of the bride and Miss Ruth Hughes, her sister, witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Persinger are on a short motor trip. They will live on a farm off the Washington Pike. Mrs. Persinger is a graduate of the Jamestown High School of the class of 1928.

Miss Betty Kingsbury is preparing to enter Dana Hall, Wellesley Mass., preparatory school for Wellesley College, next month. Miss Kingsbury graduated from Central High School last June, having highest honors of her class.

"SHOULD HAVE HAD KONJOLA LONG, LONG AGO"

Happy Lady Rejoices Over Regaining Her Appetite and Halting Indigestion

"How I wish I could have had Konjola long, long ago," said Mrs. Helen Burnette, 4658 East Ninety Third St., Cleveland, Ohio. "I suffered intense misery from the poor condition of my stomach. My appetite was poor, and I steadily lost strength. I had tried many medicines, but was always disappointed.

"But it did not take long for Konjola to assert itself. By the time I had finished the first bottle I knew that I had at last found the right medicine. I now have a fine appetite, my digestion is perfect, and my stomach never causes me the least bit of trouble. I feel much stronger. Konjola proved itself to me, and I hope that others who suffer as I did will profit from my happy experience."

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

MATTIE BOTELER IS DEAD; WAS WRITER OF POEMS, FICTION

Miss Mattie M. Boteler, poet and author, well known as a contributor to religious papers and for many years on the staff of the Christian Standard, Cincinnati publication, died at her home in Cincinnati at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening after a brief illness. She was born in Jamestown and spent her early life there.

Miss Boteler began writing as a small girl. Her first poem, printed by hand before she had learned to write, was published in the Xenia Gazette, Col. Finley, the editor, using it with an explanatory note telling that it was the work of a little Jamestown girl. She wrote poems on ribbon paper in her father's Jamestown store, and when she was older began a literary career which was prolific of poems and short stories, many of them Bible tales and all of a religious nature or written for church publications.

She was educated in the Jamestown grade and high school, and self educated widely along various lines. She was a woman of brilliant mind and widely recognized as a biblical authority. In 1894, Miss Boteler went to Cincinnati as editor of The Look-out, a publication of the Church of Christ, filling that position for many years. She was attached to the staff of the Christian Standard, writing comments on the Sunday School lesson for the Christian Endeavor page and contributing other features, filling that position up to the time of her death.

Besides short stories she was the author of seven books, five of which are fiction. She wrote "Sermon Notes on the Ministry of Jesus," and "Comments on Romans" that are widely read. A authority on Biblical study, she organized and financed the Jay Evangelist Club, which has placed many young men in the ministry and founded the "Vest Pocket Commentary," which is in great demand. The quarterlies of the Standard Publishing Company are her work and she also initiated other religious movements. She was formerly known as a lecturer on Biblical subjects in churches and before chautauqua audiences.

She organized the Boteler Bible Class which has a membership in every state. Besides her ability as a writer, Miss Boteler was also gifted as an artist, and had painted several pictures that received favorable comment.

Miss Boteler lived in Cincinnati with a niece, Miss Katherine Strong, librarian at the Cincinnati public library on Vine St. She also is survived by two other nieces, Mrs. Grace Boteler Allen, Leesburg, also a writer and Mrs. Earl Glass of Loveland.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Church of Christ, Cincinnati, Saturday morning, interment will take place in Jamestown cemetery about 1 p. m. Saturday.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE CALL FOR COURAGE—Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both body and soul in hell.—Matthew 10:28.

THE HORSE STILL A WAR WEAPON

Brisbane, the incomparable editorial writer, recently questioned the use of ground forces in the next war. It may be recalled that despite the then enormous strides made in producing aerial and submersible fighting craft, long range guns, etc., the bulk of the fighting in the World war was accomplished by infantry, often in hand-to-hand combat. The "advanced methods" were more or less auxiliary and used for preparatory purposes. The writer once heard a group of high-ranking army officers agree that the next war will be decided largely by the horse strength of the combatant nations. Sounds funny, inasmuch as there was practically no cavalry utilized in 1914-1918, doesn't it? Yet, these students of battle concluded that, had Germany retained cavalry instead of converting it into artillery her army could have easily reached Paris on either of her perilous thrusts. On each occasion a "break through" of eight or ten miles or more was obtained yet the invaders had no mobile force to take advantage of it. Motorized artillery will move no faster, if as fast, over shell-torn terrain than will foot troops. Seasoned cavalry will move up to 90 miles a day. General Allenby, in his historic campaign in Mesopotamia, utilized his mounted troops in wave attacks the same as infantry. In assaulting and capturing one city in the Holy Land just before his triumphant entry into Jerusalem Allenby began his mounted wave attack of trench defense and had penetrated the outer works and captured the reserve and support bases within 45 minutes—the entire action with troops on horseback or camelback.

Incidentally, it is generally accepted that Allenby was "shanghaied" from the Western Front because he openly criticized the policy of abandoning cavalry tactics. While no one can sensibly or reasonably wish for war to prove a theory it must be admitted that, as Pershing copied the fathers to conquer Germany so then must future enemies be conquered. It can be hoped that horse will be perpetuated to serve man in peaceful pursuits—or as a memento of the early Twentieth century.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK—Every good-sized movie house should have an adequate parking space for motor cars, run in conjunction with the theater. Roxel has a place at the rear of his Broadway Cathedral that accommodates 500 cars and does a business of $1,000 a day.

FATE

The other day "Big Bill" Terry, Giants first baseman, was given a "ticket" for parking his car in the wrong alley. A double-header with Chicago claimed precedence over a summons to traffic court, whereupon Magistrate Andrew Macrery issued a summons for 10 o'clock next morning, without bothering to consult the baseball schedule.

That same afternoon Andy Macrery, discussing a business deal, complained of a pain in his heart. He was hustled to a neighboring doctor's office, where it was seen that the Worthy Brother was beyond the succor of science. Shortly thereafter he departed for the New Jerusalem. And he never got to try "Big Bill" Terry.

SMOKE IN DINERS

It won't be long now before we'll be able to smoke in all railroad dining cars. The Lackawanna is the first to let down the bars, while other roads in the metropolitan district, including the Pennsylvania, Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley and the B. & O., permit smoking at the end of the "last sitting" when no more diners are to enter the car. All the roads in the district admit women to smoking cars. On limited trains, with club cars provided with the latest varieties of ash trays, the number of women who smoke almost equal that of men.

WHAT ABOUT THIS?

Whenever things are dull around the office of "Punch," the official British "comic" weekly, they take a "nasty dig" at Hollywood. We all admit that some of the Hollywood output fails at times to click, but in its balmy mood, Hollywood certainly would not sponsor a production like "The Battle of Jutland," the British film now showing on Broadway.

The Battle of Jutland, itself opened at a ten-mile range, I am reliably informed, and only ten and fourteen-inch shells were used. In the film, gunners are disclosed loading quantities of five-inch shells into their guns. Again, a man wounded in the torpedo room hurls through an open door and yells to the commanding officer in the control room that a leak has been stopped. The torpedo room is in the very bowels of a battleship, while the control room is, of course,

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

PRACTICAL

A Pennsylvania girl, watching an Ohio man try to cook in a neighboring vacation camp, finally takes pity on the man and cooks for him. Romance follows, and after that a wedding. Doubtless the finest emotion in the world is made better when the thread of the practical is woven in.

YOUNG PRESIDENTS

University of California joins the list of great colleges with youthful presidents. "Bob" Sproul is the new head of the university in Berkeley—one of the largest in America. Sproul is 39, utchins, the president of the University of Chicago, is hardly over 30. Glenn Frank, directing the affairs of the University of Wisconsin, is barely out of his thirties, if at all. Little, just resigned from University of Michigan, was in his thirties.

Why all this emphasis on youth, especially in college presidencies? Men in good health do their best work between 40 and 65. Are colleges choosing boys for president, following a fad?

The best argument for such procedure, probably, is that young men understand better the present problems of youth. Anyway, it will be interesting to watch Sproul, Hutchins, and the rest. The writer of this column predicts success for all of them—not because of youth, but in spite of it.

NEVER TOO OLD

Hugh Dyke and his wife go for an airplane ride. Nothing strange about that except that Hugh is 94 and his wife is 92. They were married in Tennessee seven years before the war between the states broke out.

The world has changed more since 1854 than it did in all the time from the year 1000 to 1534. And the Dykes have been here to see it. Wondrous lucky to have one's life span in this particular age!

And as for old age, what is age even at 94 if you don't recognize it? Age can fly as high as youth.

SHACKLING BRAINS

When brains are put in chains by the government, the chains are on the way out. No matter what temporary success Mussolini may be having in running Italy according to his system, when he decrees that no teacher shall teach in the higher schools of Italy unless he advocates what the government tells him to, the dictator is on the way to his final fall. For that matter he was on his way to the gate when he decided on censorship for newspapers.

When professors cannot follow the truth, find the truth, and they may, and transmit it to others they are not real teachers. When the so-called truth is put in their mouths by an autocratic government, human progress is at a standstill.

Travelers, back from Italy, say the trains run on time and praise the dictator. That's a shallow conclusion.

WHO KILLED ROTHSTEIN?

Grover Whalen, sometimes known as "Groop" Grover, the Prettiest Police Commissioner New York ever had, is preparing a report in which will be rehearsed the glories of The Boys in Blue since Mr. Whalen undertook their leadership.

The scandal attending the Rothstein murder drove his predecessor, Joe Warren, out of office, and there are those who say Warren was forced to quit because he could not be dismissed from bringing the gambler's slayers to book. Had the case been bared, the impression is many a name, high on the city's political roster, would have been found enhancing promissory notes in Rothstein's strong-box.

Warren was kicked out and died of grief. Whalen somersaulted into his place to accomplish what they said Warren couldn't.

Grover has staged a great show. From a vaudeville standpoint, it's what's known as a "knockout."

But the Rothstein case is still in the nebulous status it was when the Great Thespian took office.

As Mr. Mulligan, the detective, remarked to his partner, Mr. Garrity, in "The Gorilla":

"I've followed every clue. I've shot at everything I've seen and I can't make anything out of it!"

FAITH

BETTER trust all and be deceived.

And weep that trust and that deceiving.

Then doubt one heart that, if believed,

Had blessed one's life with true believing.

Oh, in this mocking world, too fast

The doubting fiend o'ertakes our youth;

Better be cheated to the last

Than lose the blessed hope of truth.

THE DAY OF MERGERS

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Some hands portray culture. One glimpse of them and their owner is set down at once as a person of fine tastes and instincts. They are expressive hands—hands that show breeding rather than emotion. Shapely, poised and graceful in their movements; never nervous, fidgety or fluttering—the hands of a gentleman.

These hands rarely lose their look of culture and grace, even when they grow older. The gentleman's hand usually remains shapely in contour and outline, even when the skin grows yellow and wrinkled, or veins show prominently.

Yet these unpleasant signs of age are ugly—they do detract from the loveliness these hands have had in youth. A dry, withered look often overtakes the cultured hand early in life—as if their owner's physical vitality had lowered in direct proportion as her mental vitality increased. Teachers and women writers often have hands like these—a little bloodless—a little over-intellectual looking. One does not think with one's hands—why should they look so meditative and far removed from the warm, busy, active things of life?

Hands like these need exercise to retain a fresh, youthful look of vitality—need to be refreshed and stimulated constantly, like their owners' minds.

Bloodless hands should be made to grip things firmly—to move with energy and strength as well as quiet grace, to make the blood flow into them, to make them vital.

If your hands show culture and mental refinement at the expense of physical freshness and a smooth firm skin—take this exercise. Clench them tightly, then extend the fingers as far apart as possible. Stretch them tensely, then let them relax—and then clench the fists again. Repeat this exercise vigorously ten or twelve times a day.

Keep the skin supple by using a milky hand lotion daily—and a stimulating nourishing hand cream at night. Rub them and manipulate them in idle moments; soak them in warm oil or heat in the cream. Wear gloves at night, slap them vigorously and practice scales on a real or imaginary piano.

Both the Moscow and the Nanking governments have almost unlimited numbers of men available, but the professional consensus is that both will find it impossible to transport very large forces of them to the theater of so distant a struggle—especially the Russians, over 3,000 miles of single-track railroad.

As for materials, it is foreseen that the Russians will have to travel light, whatever they may possess at home.

China's supply is known to be scanty and primitive.

In the great war the belligerents had the resources to get more, but not this pair of them.

There are few dissenters from the judgment that the Russians could hardly defeat the Chinese if the center of their population were as near to the Manchurian frontier as the thickly settled portion of northern China.

And of course, all of it will be mutually defensive—as prescribed by the Kellogg treaty.

At any rate, such is the forecast—provided Japan and the western powers keep hands off.

Outside interference, sooner or later, is recognized as the situation's vital peril.

One outsider in, all the important ones in—the prediction.

Almost needless to say, the outsiders would immediately make a first-class war out of it—with all the modern improvements.

Green corn may be cooked in various ways. It may be cooked in the cob in salted water and eaten in the fingers. Guests usually feel they would rather have it served cut from the cob, I think. It is more dainty to eat.

Today's Recipes

Stewed Fresh Corn—Cut corn from the ear before stewing. Cook in just enough milk to cover for five to ten minutes. Season with salt, pepper and butter. Bacon fat may be added and slices of crisp bacon used as a garnish. Mined green pepper and minced pimento may be added for variety. A creole method is to cook one large minced pepper and one small minced onion in one tablespoon olive oil for 10 minutes, stirring frequently, and adding three medium tomatoes, chopped; one and one-half cups corn pulp; one teaspoon salt, one-eight teaspoon cayenne, one teaspoon sugar. (No water is added, the tomatoes supplying all the liquid needed.)

Toasted Green Corn—Boil until tender. Then broil cars, basting with butter, and turning frequently until evenly browned, or about five minutes.

Gingerbread Waffles—One cup molasses, one-third cup butter, one teaspoon soda, one-half cup sour milk, one egg, two teaspoons ginger, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Put the butter and molasses in a saucepan and heat to the boiling point. Remove pan from the fire and beat in the soda. Add the milk, the whole egg, well beaten, and the dry ingredients mixed and sifted together. Bake on a waffle iron for two and a half minutes, or until golden brown. Top with whipped cream and sprinkle with nutmeg. A cherry on the cream adds a pretty note of color. Or, if you prefer, substitute ice cream.

Cold Tomato Catsup—One peck ripe tomatoes, one pint vinegar, salt, cloves, pepper, garlic and allspice to taste. Wash the tomatoes and force through a wire sieve; then strain the liquid through a jelly bag. The liquid is not used in the catsup. Thin the pulp with vinegar. Season with salt, pepper, garlic, allspice and cloves. Bottle in sterilized containers and seal. This catsup retains the taste of the fresh tomatoes and is an excellent flavoring for soups and sauces.

Answers to Mothers

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.

—Jewish Proverb.

"My little girl of seven has night terrors. She cries out, and seems scared, and sometimes these spells last for 10 to 15 minutes. Can anything be done for these?"

"MRS. A."

Yes, Mrs. A., when you find out the cause of them.

Night terrors have more significance than teeth grinding and head rolling (which may have no significance). It is usually found that there is something wrong with the health of the child who suffers from night terrors. Sometimes enlarged adenoids and tonsils may interfere with the breathing and cause the sensation of suffocation, and this would cause a nightmare of suffocation. Gastric troubles, anemia, abnormally unstable or irritable nervous systems, are to be thought of.

As a child's specialist and have your child thoroughly gone over.

Mrs. G.—Your child is what is known as a problem child.

Oftentimes, problem children are simply the result of lack of sympathetic and correct discipline; other times the causes are more obscure. Heredity may be a factor.

As correct discipline and surroundings are so important both you and your child should be under the instruction of a child guidance expert. Many cities now have child guidance clinics, but if there are none in yours, perhaps there are some trained workers, either physicians or laymen, who specialize in child psychology, whom you can come in contact with, through inquiry at the board of health or the county medical society, or through social workers.

Don't despair, Mrs. G. From what you tell me, the case is not hopeless by any means.

We have a list of modern books on the general care and feeding of children, which you may have.

"My children like turnip and mustard greens, but they do not like spinach. Please tell me how these foods compare in iron and vitamins with spinach?"

MRS. O.

Some recent work shows that they compare very favorably. Mrs. O. They are even higher in calcium and iron than spinach! You know, don't you, that in cooking vegetables you should use as small an amount of water as possible so that by the time they are done, there should be very little or no water left? The reason for this is that approximately half the mineral salts are dissolved in the water and some of the vitamins, too. If you use the water that may be left, it's all right; if you throw it away, it's all wrong.

And do you also know that vegetables should not be cooked until mushy? Vegetables should be firm, to give exercise to the teeth and gums. Then prolonged cooking lowers the vitamin content.

Mrs. G.—We have an article on Bed Wetting which you may have.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

After seeing a very romantic motion picture I got to ruminating about love. Romantic pictures always give one a sense of loss, don't they? We never experience one of those grand passions, we think.

Our loves are commonplace, our husbands and boy friends just ordinary mortals with no real sentiment in their makeup. They don't express themselves in exquisite language and sing tender love ballads that make shivers run up and down our spines.

In the theater I looked about me and wondered if all those ordinary looking men, women and children were feeling as I was. Did they visualize themselves in the place of the hero and heroine, and did each one ache with longing for the ideal, soul satisfying love portrayed? Or, in the case of the youngsters, dream dreams of the love that is coming to them some day?

To some of us great love comes, others miss it. Some of the greatest lovers of history lost their loved ones. Lovers often wed and allow romance to die. But if they are hopelessly separated they express the lovely sentiments love called forth in sweet deeds, lovely verse, or sad, exquisite music.

The most ennobling love of all is the love which asks nothing for itself, but which, selfless, cares only for the happiness of the beloved. In contemplation of such devotion, how small are our petty bickerings, fault-finders and selfish, demanding loves.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 19 and in love with a young man 24. I am very jealous and so is he. Most of his time is spent with me, but sometimes he goes out with another girl and denies it to me."

"He says he loves me dearly, but he teases me all the time about this girl and still does not want me to go out with other boy friends. Shall I make dates with other boys or be true to him? Or shall I call the girl and ask her 'is she the girl friend?'"

"BLACK EYES."

Wouldn't it be lovely if, instead of each being jealous of the other each cared only to make the other happy? Is that too high an ideal for you to strive for? As a general thing I believe engaged young people should not go out with others, but what is fair for one is fair for the other. Don't call the other girl up. That would advertise your jealousy.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a young girl 29 years old and I have been keeping steady company for about five months. We are planning to become engaged soon. Now, Mrs. Lee, my fiance says he loves me, but when anybody else is around he hardly notices me, although when we are alone he is very prompt and attentive. I love him dearly and cannot understand his attitude. I will appreciate any advice you may give me."

"LITTLE ME."

I imagine the young man is shy of showing his love for you, dear, and so appears inattentive and hurts your feelings when others are about. Couldn't you tell him tactfully how you feel and ask him not to act quite so indifferent? Other girls have written me of the same attitude on the part of their lovers.

A FRIEND OF LONESOME'S.

Be patient, little girl. You'll have friends, too, by and by. Maybe you are not as grown up as some of the other girls of your age.

JUST KATE: If you give way to your fancy, how do you know he will marry you? I should think one experience of that kind was enough in the family and you would do as your mother says. You allow him too many privileges as it is. What your girl friends tell you isn't so. Tell him you love him so well you want to keep him and get married. Your letter is most difficult to answer through a column like this. Talk to your doctor about the matter you ask me, and if he will not give you the information he may be able to tell you to whom to write for it. If that fails send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I will try to get the information for you.

SUMMER DESSERT.

FRUIT SALAD WITH LEMON ICE.

(Mrs. Mai.) Morton's Daily Tested Recipe—Prepare and chill seasonable fruits (oranges, peach, melon with a few raspberries are delicious). Pour over the fruit a French dressing and let stand half an hour in the ice box. Arrange like nest in lettuce cup and in center place a ball of lemon or orange ice.

DISTURBING THE PEACE.

The train had been shutting back and forth for several minutes, while on one side stood a car containing two young people fuming with impatience.

Finally the girl turns to the boy and said, "I do wish they would practice somewhere else."

TOO QUANT.

She was trying to be nice to the little girl whose mother was a great friend of hers.

"I hope you are getting on well at school," she said. "Now, I wonder to become engaged soon. Now, Mrs. Lee, my fiance says he loves me, but when anybody else is around he hardly notices me, although when we are alone he is very prompt and attentive. I love him dearly and cannot understand his attitude. I will appreciate any advice you may give me."

"I could if I wanted to," replied the little girl. "But don't you think it's rather old-fashioned?"

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

UNDER THE TOADSTOOL PARASOL

Peter spied a tall toadstool standing not far from Ant Hill Bee home. How comfortable and cool it would be sitting beneath the toadstool's flat canopy, he thought. He looked at them out of the tail of his eye, and noticed that neither Dawdler nor his cousin were paying the slightest attention to him, so interested were they in family gossip. So murmuring a polite "excuse me," Peter turned on his heel and slowly strolled over to the toadstool. He glanced over his shoulder. Quite as he thought—neither Dawdler nor Mrs. Ant Hill Bee had paid a bit of attention. Sitting down in the toadstool's shade, he leaned back against its stem.

It was delightfully cool there, and Peter, watching the two Bees still buzzing in the hot sunlight, was glad he had made his escape so easily. Peter glanced up at the underside of his sheltering parasol and was startled by its beauty.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE CALL FOR COURAGE — Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both body and soul in hell.—Matthew 10:28.

THE HORSE STILL A WAR WEAPON

Brisbane, the incomparable editorial writer, recently questioned the use of ground forces in the next war. It may be recalled that despite the then enormous strides made in producing aerial and submersible fighting craft, long range guns, etc., the bulk of the fighting in the World War was accomplished by infantry, often in hand-to-hand combat. The "advanced methods" were more or less auxiliary and used for preparatory purposes. The writer once heard a group of high-ranking army officers agree that the next war will be decided largely by the horse strength of the combatant nations. Sounds funny, inasmuch as there was practically no cavalry utilized in 1914-1918. doesn't it? Yet, these students of battle concluded that, had Germany retained cavalry instead of converting it into artillery her army could have easily reached Paris on either of her perilous thrusts. On each occasion a "break through" of eight or ten miles or more was obtained yet the invaders had no mobile force to take advantage of it. Motorized artillery will move no faster, if as fast, over shell-torn terrain than will foot troops. Seasoned cavalry will move up to 90 miles a day. General Allenby, in his historic campaign in Mesopotamia, utilized his mounted troops in wave attacks the same as infantry. In assaulting and capturing one city in the Holy Land just before his triumphant entry into Jerusalem Allenby began his mounted wave attack of trench defense and had penetrated the outer works and captured the reserve and support bases within 45 minutes—the entire action with troops on horseback or camelback.

Incidentally, it is generally accepted that Allenby was "shanghaied" from the Western Front because he openly criticized the policy of abandoning cavalry tactics. While no one can sensibly or reasonably wish for war to prove a theory it must be admitted that, as Pershing copied the fathers to conquer Germany so then must future enemies be conquered. It can be hoped that horse will be perpetuated to serve man in peaceful pursuits—or as a memento of the early Twentieth century.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK — Every good-sized movie house should have an adequate parking space for motor cars, run in conjunction with the theater. Roxie has a place at the rear of his Broadway Cathedral that accommodates 500 cars and does a business of $1,000 a day.

FATE

The other day "Big Bill" Terry, Giants' first baseman, was given a "ticket" for parking his car in the wrong alley. A double-header with Chicago claimed precedence over a summons to traffic court, whereupon Magistrate Andrew Macerrey issued a summons for 10 o'clock next morning, without bothering to consult the baseball schedule.

That same afternoon Andy Macerrey, discussing a business deal, complained of a pain in his heart. He was hustled to a neighboring doctor's office, where it was seen that the worthy brother was beyond the succor of science. Shortly thereafter he departed for the New Jerusalem. And he never got to try "Big Bill" Terry.

SMOKE IN DINERS

It won't be long now before we'll be able to smoke in all railroad dining cars. The Lackawanna is the first to let down the bars, while other roads in the metropolitan district, including the Pennsylvania, Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley and the E. & O., permit smoking at the end of the "last sitting" when no more diners are to enter the car. All the roads in the district admit women to smoking cars. On limited trains, with club cars provided with the latest varieties of ash trays, the number of women who smoke almost equal that of men.

WHAT ABOUT THIS?

Whenever things are dull around the office of "Punch," the official British "comic" weekly, they take a "nasty dig" at Hollywood. We all admit that some of the Hollywood output fails at times to click; but in its balmy mood, Hollywood certainly would not sponsor a production like "The Battle of Jutland," the British film now showing on Broadway.

The Battle of Jutland, itself opened at a ten-mile range, I am reliably informed, and only ten and fourteen-inch shells were used. In the film, gunners are disclosed loading quantities of five-inch shells into their guns. Again, a man wounded in the torpedo room leans through an open door and yells to the commanding officer in the control room that a leak has been stopped. The torpedo room is in the very bowels of a battleship, while the control room is, of course,

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff, United States Army (Charles Pelot Summerall was born at Lake City, Fla., March 4, 1867. He is a graduate of Venter Military Academy and the United States Military Academy. He has been promoted through the grades to major general, in 1920, and was made chief of staff in 1925. He served in the Spanish-American war and the World War and was with the China Relief expedition in 1900 and 1901. From 1913 to 1917 he was a lecturer in the Army War college. He has received the Distinguished Service Medal, the Distinguished Service Cross and numerous foreign citations. He is also a member of several foreign orders.)

The United States army is so fortunately situated that in addition to its primary function of defense it is enabled to return continuing dividends to the American people of material and technical advancement, or practical idealism, of applied patriotism and of stimulated citizenship.

Since the enactment of the 1920 National Defense act, the army has become an important force for citizenship and leadership and through contact with it the people have become increasingly aware of their privileges and obligations in the matter of national defense.

With the United States in the full tide of material and spiritual expansion, it is no coincidence that the organized forces of an invader have not trod American shores. It is well to make of this security a solid foundation on which to build a more magnificent edifice of economic development, social well being and cultural advancement can be raised without question and without fear.

I would not have you think of our army as a lousy Ajax, waiting for a dawn that will bring new combats. As an agent of national security the concern of the army is the maintenance of peace, not the invocation of war. In time of peace, the army does a host of things not directly connected with fighting, things which redound to the benefit of the country at large.

In the twentieth century there have devolved on our army tasks of administration in four tropical areas: Cuba, Porto Rico, the Panama Canal and the Philippines. In each case military rule resulted in improved sanitary conditions,

There are few dissenters from the judgment that the Russians could hardly defeat the Chinese if the center of their population were as near to the Manchurian frontier as the thickly settled portion of northern China.

However, the Nanking government has its handicaps.

The Chinese soldiers' nerve is good but they lack discipline—never seem to acquire it—and they are practically without trained leaders, while the Russians have some tolerably competent ones.

Besides, Gen. Chang Hsueh-liang, the Manchurian war lord, is unreliable. President Chiang Kai-shek has to trust him or he probably would cut loose entirely from the republic, but no one can guess when he will make terms of his own with the soviets—or declare himself independent.

As the future is visualized here, the war—if it is to be a war—likely to string out indefinitely, on a rather larger scale than the present small preliminary engagements, but mostly guerrilla fighting, more or less hand to hand, with a vast number of shots exchanged for a comparatively small number of casualties—and yet a constant disturbance.

And it was the army signal corps that first pioneered aviation and the army air corps that first demonstrated the capabilities of airplanes in the historic flight around the world.

And of course, all of it will be mutually defensive—as prescribed by the Kellogg treaty.
At any rate, such is the forecast—provided Japan and the western powers keep hands off.

Outside interference, sooner or later, is recognized as the situation's vital peril.

Green corn may be cooked in various ways. It may be cooked on the cob in salted water and eaten in the fingers. Guests usually feel they would rather have it served cut from the cob, I think. It is more dainty to eat.

Today's Recipes

Stewed Fresh Corn — Cut corn from the ear before stewing. Cook in just enough milk to cover for five to ten minutes. Season with salt, pepper and butter. Bacon fat may be added and slices of crisp bacon used as a garnish. Mince green pepper and minced pimiento may be added for variety. A creole method is to cook one large minced pepper and one small minced onion in one tablespoon olive oil for 10 minutes, stirring frequently, and adding three medium tomatoes, chopped; one and one-half cups corn pulp, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, one teaspoon cayenne, one teaspoon sugar. (No water is added; the tomatoes supplying all the liquid needed.)

Toasted Green Corn—Boil until tender. Then broil cars, basting with butter, and turning frequently until evenly browned, or about five minutes.

Gingerbread Waffles—One cup molasses, one-third cup butter, one teaspoon soda, one-half cup sour milk, one egg, well beaten, two cups flour, two teaspoons ginger, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Put the butter and molasses in a saucepan and heat to the boiling point. Remove pan from the fire and beat in the soda. Add the milk, the whole egg, well beaten, and the dry ingredients mixed and sifted together. Bake on a waffle iron for two and a half minutes, or until golden brown. Top with whipped cream and sprinkles with nutmeg. A cherry on the cream adds a pretty note of color. Or, if you prefer, substitute ice cream.

Cold Tomato Catsup—One peck ripe tomatoes, one pint vinegar, salt, cloves, pepper, garlic and allspice to taste. Wash the tomatoes and force through a wire sieve; then strain off the liquor through a jelly bag. The liquid is not used in the catsup.

Thin the pulp with vinegar. Season with salt, pepper, garlic, allspice and cloves. Bottle in sterilized containers and seal. This catsup retains the taste of the fresh tomatoes and is an excellent flavoring for soups and sauces.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

Answers to Mothers

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.

—Jewish Proverb.

"My little girl of seven has night terrors. She cries out, and seems scared, and sometimes these spells last for 10 to 15 minutes. Can anything be done for these?"

"MRS. A."

Yes, Mrs. A., when you find out the cause of them.

Night terrors have more significance than teeth grinding and head rolling (which may have no significance). It is usually found that there is something wrong with the health of the child who suffers from night terrors. Sometimes enlarged adenoids and tonsils may interfere with the breathing and cause the sensation of suffocation, and this would cause a nightmare of suffocation. Gastric troubles, anemia, abnormally unstable or irritable nervous systems, are to be thought of.

See a children's specialist and have your child thoroughly gone over.

Mrs. G.—Your child is what is known as a problem child.

Oftentimes, problem children are simply the result of lack of sympathetic and correct discipline; other times the causes are more obscure. Heredity may be a factor.

As correct discipline and surroundings are so important both you and your child should be under the instruction of a child guidance expert. Many cities now have child guidance clinics, but if there are none in yours, perhaps there are some trained workers, either physicians or laymen, who specialize in child psychology, whom you can come in contact with, through inquiry at the board of health or the county medical society, or through social workers.

Don't despair. Mrs. G. From what you tell me, the case is not hopeless by any means.

We have a list of modern books on the general care and feeding of children, which you may have.

"My children like turnip and mustard greens, but they do not like spinach. Please tell me how these foods compare in iron and vitamins with spinach?"

MRS. O.—Some recent work shows that they compare very favorably. Mrs. O. They are even higher in calcium and iron than spinach! You know, don't you, that in cooking vegetables you should use as small an amount of water as possible so that by the time they are done, there should be very little or no water left? The reason for this is that approximately half the mineral salts are dissolved in the water and some of the vitamins, too. If you use the water that may be left, it's all right; if you throw it away, it's all wrong.

And do you also know that vegetables should not be cooked until mushy? Vegetables should be firm, to give exercise to the teeth and gums. Then prolonged cooking lowers the vitamin content.

Mrs. G.—We have an article on Bed Wetting which you may have.

Tomorrow: Underweight.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

After seeing a very romantic motion picture I got to ruminating about love. Romantic pictures always give one a sense of loss, don't they? We never experience one of those grand passions, we think.

Our loves are commonplace, our husbands and boy friends just ordinary mortals with no real sentiment in their makeup. They don't express themselves in exquisite language and sing tender love ballads that make shivers run up and down our spines.

In the theater I looked about me and wondered if all those ordinary looking men, women and children were feeling as I was. Did they visualize themselves in the place of the hero and heroine, and did each one ache with longing for the ideal, soul satisfying love portrayed? Or, in the case of the youngsters, dream dreams of the love that is coming to them some day?

To some of us great love comes, others miss the way. Some of the greatest loves of history lost their loved ones. Lovers often died and loved romance to die. But if they are hopelessly separated they express the lovely sentiments love called forth in sweet deeds, lovely verse, or sad, exquisite music.

The most ennobling love of all is the love which asks nothing for itself, but which, selfless, cares only for the happiness of the beloved. In contemplation of such devotion, how small are our petty bickerings, fault-finders and selfish, demanding loves.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 19 and in love with a young man 24. I am very jealous and so is he. Most of his time is spent with me, but sometimes he goes out with another girl and denies it to me.

"He says he loves me dearly, but he teases me all the time about this girl and still does not want me to go out with other boys. Shall I make dates with other boys or be true to him? Or shall I call the girl and ask her 'is she the girl friend'?"

"BLACK EYES."
Wouldn't it be lovely if, instead of each being jealous of the other each cared only to make the other happy? Is that too high an ideal for you to strive for? As a general thing I believe engaged young people should not go out with others, but what is true for one is fair for the other. Don't call the other girl up. That would advertise your jealousy.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a young girl 20 years old and I have been keeping steady company for about five months. We are planning to become engaged soon. Now, Mrs. Lee, my fiancé says he loves me, but when anybody else is around he hardly notices me, although when we are alone he is very prompt and attentive. I love him dearly and cannot understand his attitude. I will appreciate any advice you may give me.

"LITTLE ME."

I imagine the young man is shy of showing his love for you, dear, and so appears inattentive and hurts your feelings when others are about. Couldn't you tell him tactfully how you feel and ask him not to act quite so indifferent? Other girls have written me of the same attitude on the part of their lovers.

A FRIEND OF LONESOMES.
Be patient, little girl. You'll have friends, too, by and by. Maybe you are not as grown up as some of the other girls of your age.

JUST KATE: If you give way to your fiancé, how do you know he will marry you? I should think one experience of that kind was enough in the family and you would do as your mother says. You allow him too many privileges as it is. What your girl friends tell you isn't so. Tell him you love him so well you want to keep him and get married. Your letter is most difficult to answer through a column like this. Talk to your doctor about the matter you ask me, and if he will not give you the information he may be able to tell you to whom to write for it. If that fails send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I will try to get the information for you.

SUMMER DESSERT
FRUIT SALAD WITH LEMON ICE

(Mrs. Mai) Morton's Daily Tested Recipe—Prepare and chill seasonable fruits (oranges, peach, melon with a few raspberries are delicious). Pour over the fruit a French dressing and let stand half an hour in the ice box. Arrange like nest in lettuce cup and in center place a ball of lemon or orange ice.

DISTURBING THE PEACE

The train had been shutting back and forth for several minutes, while on one side stood a car containing two young people fuming with impatience.

Finally the girl turned to the boy and said, "I do wish they would practice somewhere else."

TOO QUAIN

She was trying to be nice to the little girl whose mother was a great friend of hers.

"I hope you are getting on well at school," she said. "Now, I wonder if you can spell 'horse'?"

"I could if I wanted to," replied the little girl. "But don't you think it's rather old-fashioned?"

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

UNDER THE TOADSTOOL PARASOL

Peter spied a tall toadstool standing not far from the Ant Hill Bee home. How comfortable and cool it would be sitting beneath the toadstool's flat canopy, he thought. He looked at them out of the tail of his eye, and noticed that neither Dawdler nor his cousin were paying the slightest attention to him, so interested were they in family gossip. So merrily a polite "excuse me" Peter tramped on his heel and slowly strolled over to the toadstool.

He glanced over his shoulder. Quite as he thought—neither Dawdler nor Mrs. Ant Hill Bee had paid a bit of attention. Sitting down in the toadstool's shade, he leaned back against its stem.

It was delightfully cool there, and Peter, watching the two Bees still buzzing in the hot sunlight, was glad he had made his escape so easily. Peter glanced up at the underside of his sheltering parasol and was startled by its beauty.

"Why, it's crinkly, just like silk! And it has such a soft pinky tinge. Funny, I always thought a toadstool was such an ugly old thing and squashed every eye I found under my foot. It seems as though the larger you are, the less you see, although it ought to be the other way round."

"Ow, ow!" moaned a faint voice near at hand, interrupting Peter's thoughts. "You are hurting me dreadfully. I am afraid you will snap me in two!"

Amazed, Peter stared around him. He couldn't see a thing, but he noticed Dawdler and his Cousin Ant Hill Bee were still in earnest conversation, so he was sure the sound couldn't have come from their direction. He moved a bit so he could look farther, and the cry of distress grew louder.

"Oh, dear me you are stepping on my head now. You will be the death of me, I'm sure!"

Pinch-Hitting For Frame

A year or so ago an ambitious Dayton sportswriter with an appetite for work and the courage of Sergeant York, essayed to select all-time all-star Dayton high school football teams.

In this story, he paraded before the eyes of Dayton fans the names of players who had sparkled on the gridiron for Dayton high schools for twenty-five years and more, using the assistance of several old-time fans to help him make his choices.

The account of his findings was interesting, many of those names being familiar to Xenians, but the changes in the game make it difficult to compare the deer-footed star of today with the brawny athletes of years ago.

Your correspondent, being eleven years out of the army and not as fleet-footed as in days of yore, wouldn't dare go to the length of picking an all-star Central High School team.

But with another football season appearing in the offing, it is a fascinating pastime to think back over the careers of the players who have performed on the gridiron under the colors of Central High.

To assemble this aggregation would be a real treat, but it smacks of the impossible. Early fans recall as one of the earliest teams, that on which Bob Watt, "Tubby" Johns, Lawrence Wagner and others, performed. Ernie Schmidt, the Chew Boys, J. A. and Fenton, Walker Gibney, and other well-known Xenians, have played football up there at Central High, to the probable amazement of the younger generation.

There have been quite a few football families wearing the blue and white. Conspicuous among these were the Balders, Lou and John and their cousin George; the Galloway brothers, Charley and Wilson; the Evers brothers, Leo and Paul; the Adair brothers, Charley, Jim and Bob; the Horan brothers, Raymond and "Pete"; the Putnam brothers, Raymond and Harry; the Barnett brothers, Mundy and Hank and Cobb; the Whittington brothers, Harold and Bert; Perry and Raymond Shumaker; Bernard and Tom Hollen; camp; "Weiner" and "Fuzzy" and "Seop" and "Squeak" Vannorsdall; Paul and Don Fuller; Don Art and Bob Currie; and other brother-players, no doubt, whose names do not immediately present themselves.

Then there were Bill Fraver, "Dutch" Schultz, "Red" Randall, Heber Tullis, "Doc" Zell, Paul Boxwell, Lawrence Purdon, Allan Borden, Bill Riddell, "Doc" Denner, Bill Rickles, "Dode" Kneisley, "Atlas" Smith, "Yank" Stephens, George McClellan, Jim Savage, Bill Belden, Bill Shadrach, "Mickey" McNeff, Bob Veasley, "Cheaty" Holton, Bob Chitty, Bob Ballantyne, Marcus McCallister, Art Bales, "Chip" Satterfield, Jack Eavey, "Dick" Nisbet, Johnny Guldway, "Wither" taking in the teams of the last couple of years, they undertake to pick an all-star team from this list?

ERNEST ROCKHOLD IS DEPUTY AUDITOR

Ernest R. Rockhold, assistant cashier and teller at the Farmers' and Traders' Bank, Jamestown, has resigned to take a position as deputy in the office of the county auditor, it was announced Thursday by Auditor Paul H. Creswell. He will begin his work early in September, succeeding William Wead when the latter resumes his work at Ohio State University.

Mr. Rockhold has been connected with the Jamestown bank several years. Robert Moorman, son of R. J. Moorman, cashier of the bank, has been employed for the bank position, vacated by Mr. Rockhold.

POSTOFFICE BEATS COATES TO AGAIN TIE UP AMERICAN LOOP

A tie still exists for leadership in the American Softball League as the Postoffice and the Coates Barbers at Cox Field Wednesday evening and pounded out a 13 to 6 victory in seven innings to give them a win and lost percentage identical to that of the Hooven and Allison nine.

The two leaders now have won eleven games and lost six, and will battle for the league title with the barbers out of the running. Superb pitching on the part of Downey for the federal employees and good stick work by his mates, tells the story of the victory.

The Coates team could do little

CEDARVILLE GRID CANDIDATES WILL ENJOY CAMP PERIOD

With the opening game of the season less than a month away, Coach Marvin Borst of Cedarville College, is inaugurating a pre-season training camp to help condition his athletes for a stiff, ten-game schedule.

Coach Borst has called all football candidates to report at the school next Monday, to go into camp on the college grounds. The athletes will condition themselves under the wary eye of the mentor, to help harden their muscles and will learn football fundamentals. A cook will be provided and a training table maintained as a feature of the camp, which is the first time this plan has been employed at Cedarville. About fifteen veterans are expected to report.

Classes start September 11, and the football candidates will be in camp until the opening schedule. Coach Borst said he ready to send a team against Transylvania, Kentucky, September 21. The game will be played at night, the first time Cedarville has played a night football game, and will be the first of two night games on the schedule of the Greene Comminations.

Cedarville plays Kentucky Wesleyan September 28 and then plays its second night game at Cincinnati with the University of Cincinnati football under its then athletic director, Boyd Chambers. The game is played under flood lights and, inaugurated at Cincinnati to overcome competition in the amusement work and hot afternoons, seems to be growing.

Two games with Wilmington College are on the Cedarville schedule, making up nearly 50 per cent of the Quakers' schedule as Coach "Shifty" Bolen has only booked five games for this season.

UNION SERVICES TO BE JOINT PROGRAM

The Xenia Ministerial Association is announcing a special service next Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church in connection with the Sunday night union services.

The program will be a combined service for children and adults. The Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, who has done much original work in building objects and models for the teaching of the Bible, will demonstrate a number of these lessons as a part of the service.

Children are especially invited to the services. Among other things the speaker will show a "Bible Giant" and a Giant Bible. The services begin at 7:30 p. m. and the public is invited.

Wife Preservers

A reading glass kept on the telephone stand will aid those whose eyesight is not of the best in easily reading the numbers in the book.

You, too, may have a clear skin

THOUSANDS of people have weak, impure blood—to this may be attributed pimples, boils, eczema, "run-down" systems, rheumatism and even more serious ailments.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get the number of your red-blood-cells back to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, those pains usually called rheumatism, boils, pimples and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again and sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You are resistant to disease.

Throughout more than a hundred years S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It is Nature's own blood tonic for improving the appetite, clearing the body of so-called skin troubles, and building strength and resistance to disease.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

S.S.S. increases the count of red-cells in the blood. Weak, impure blood is injurious to the system, lowering resistance to disease. Rich, red blood builds and sustains the body. S.S.S. helps Nature build rich, red blood. Good blood improves the processes by which the body is nourished, promotes constructive metabolism (healthy body building) and works against infection and disease. Take S.S.S. daily at meal-time. To get full benefit you must take it regularly and over a sufficient period of time. At all drug stores. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Pinch-Hitting For Frame

A year or so ago an ambitious Dayton sport writer with an appetite for work and the courage of Sergeant York, essayed to select all-time star Dayton high school football teams.

In this story, he paraded before the eyes of Dayton fans the names of players who had sparked on the gridiron for Dayton high schools for twenty-five years and more, using the assistance of several old-time fans to help him make his choices.

The account of his findings was interesting, many of those names being familiar to Xenians, but the changes in the game make it difficult to compare the deer-footed star of today with the brawny athletes of years ago.

Your correspondent, being eleven years out of the army and not as fleet-footed as in days of yore, wouldn't dare go to the length of picking an all-star Central High School team.

But with another football season appearing in the offing, it is a fascinating pastime to think back over some of the players who have performed on the gridiron under the colors of Central High.

To assemble this aggregation would be a real feat, but it smacks of the impossible. Early fans recall as one of the earliest stars, that on which Bob Watt, "Tubby" Johns, Lawrence Wagner and others, performed. Ernie Schmidt, the Chew boys, J. A. and Fenton, Walker Gibney, and other well-known Xenians, have played football up there at Central High, to the probable amazement of the younger generation.

There have been quite a few football families wearing the blue and white. Conspicuous among these were the Balders, Lou and John and their cousin George; the Galloway brothers, Charley and Paul; the Evans brothers, Leo and Paul; the Adair brothers, Charley, Jim and Bob; the Horen brothers, Raymond and "Pete"; the Putnam brothers, Raymond and Harry; the Barnett brothers, Mandy and Hank and Cobb; the Whittington brothers, Harold and Bert; Perry and Raymond Shumaker; Bernard and Tom Hollen-camp; "Weiner" and "Fuzzy" and "Scop" and "Quack" Vannorsdall; Paul and Don Fuller, Don Art and Bob Currie; and other brother-players, no doubt, whose names do not immediately present themselves.

Then there were Bill Fraver, "Dutch" Schultz, "Red" Randall, Heber Tullis, "Doc" Zell, Paul Boxwell, Lawrence Purdon, Allan Borden, Bill Riddell, "Doc" Den-ser, Bill Rickles, "Dode" Kneisley, "Atlas" Smith, "Yank" Stephens, George McClellan, Jim Savage, Bill Holden, Bill Shindich, "Mickey" McNeff, Bob Yeakley, "Cheaty" Holton, Bob Chitty, Bob Ballan-tyne, Marcus McCallister, Art Bales, "Chip" Satterfield, Jack Eavey, "Dick" Nisbet, Johnny Gud-lay. Without taking in the teams of the last couple of years, this isn't half of them. Would you undertake to pick an all-star team from this list?

ERNEST ROCKHOLD IS DEPUTY AUDITOR

Ernest R. Rockhold, assistant cashier and teller at the Farmers' and Traders' Bank, Jamestown, has resigned to take a position as deputy in the office of the county auditor, it was announced Thursday by Auditor Paul H. Creswell. He will begin his work early in September, succeeding William Wead when the latter resumes his work at Ohio State University.

Mr. Rockhold has been connected with the Jamestown bank several years. Robert Moorman, son of R. J. Moorman, cashier of the bank, has been employed for the bank position, vacated by Mr. Rockhold.

POSTOFFICE BEATS COATES TO AGAIN TIE UP AMERICAN LOOP

A tie still exists for leadership in the American Softball League as the Postoffice nine fell upon the Coates Barbers at Cox Field Wednesday evening and pounded out a 13 to 6 victory in seven innings to give them a won and lost percentage identical to that of the Hooven and Allison nine.

The two leaders now have won eleven games and lost six, and will battle for the league title with the barbers out of the running. Superb pitching on the part of Downey for the federal employees and good stick work by his mates, tells the story of the victory.

The Coates team could do little

CEDARVILLE GRID CANDIDATES WILL ENJOY CAMP PERIOD

With the opening game of the season less than a month away, Coach Marvin Borst of Cedarville College, is inaugurating a pre-season training camp to help condition his athletes for a stiff, ten-game schedule.

Coach Borst has called all football candidates to report at the school next Monday, to go into camp on the college grounds. The athletes will condition themselves under the wary eye of the mentor, to help harden their muscles and will learn football fundamentals. A cook will be provided and a training table maintained as a feature of the camp, which is the first time this plan has been employed at Cedarville. About fifteen veterans are expected to report.

Classes start September 11, and the football candidates will be in camp until the opening school day. Coach Borst must be ready to send a team against Transylvania, Kentucky, September 21. The game will be played at night, the first time Cedarville has played a night football game, and will be the first of two night games on the schedule of the Greene Counties.

Cedarville plays Kentucky Wesleyan September 28 and then plays its second night game at Cincinnati until the opening school day. Coach Borst must be ready to send a team against Transylvania, Kentucky, September 21. The game will be played at night, the first time Cedarville has played a night football game, and will be the first of two night games on the schedule of the Greene Counties.

UNION SERVICES TO BE JOINT PROGRAM

The Xenia Ministerial Association is announcing a special service next Sunday at the First United Presbyterian Church in connection with the Sunday night union services.

The program will be a combined service for children and adults. The Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, who has done much original work in building objects and models for the teaching of the Bible, will demonstrate a number of these lessons as a part of the service.

Children are especially invited to the services. Among other things the speaker will show a "Bible Giant" and a Giant Bible. The services begin at 7:30 p. m. and the public is invited.

You, too, may have a clear skin

THOUSANDS of people have weak, impure blood—to this may be attributed pimples, boils, eczema, "run-down" systems, rheumatism and even more serious ailments.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get the number of your red-blood-cells back to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, those pains usually called rheumatism, boils, pimples and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again and sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You are resistant to disease.

Throughout more than a hundred years S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It is Nature's own blood tonic for improving the appetite, clearing

The copper tank of the still, is mounted on two coal oil stoves of three burners each. The apparatus includes about 100 feet of hose with which water used to cool the coils was conveyed to the still.

The raid was made by Patrolmen Charles Thompson, J. E. Craig and George Robinson, who were accompanied by Detective Lieutenant of the Pennsylvania railroad police force.

LOST WALLET IS RETURNED

Xenia Finds Cash
Lost At Niagara Falls

David McKee, of Lachme, Que., is happier today than he was two weeks ago.

McKee went to Niagara Falls on a vacation trip and the day he arrived lost his new wallet containing $125, all his vacation funds.

Mrs. Fred Haines, R. R. 7, Xenia, touring with her husband and family, was in Niagara, N. Y., for the day. The party stepped out of a store where souvenirs were on sale, and on the sidewalk, where hundreds had been walking over it, lay McKee's new wallet, open.

Mrs. Haines picked it up. Besides the bills, half of which were in Canadian and half in United States money, the wallet contained a picture of the owner, his name and address, and automobile license. As soon as the Haines party reached home, Mrs. Haines wrote to McKee. She received an immediate answer describing the lost wallet and its contents. McKee said that he had saved all year to accumulate a fund for the trip to Niagara and lost it the day he reached his destination. He asked Mrs. Haines to accept $10 as a reward.

The wallet was dispatched to its owner Tuesday.

HOME SCHOOLS WILL OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

School at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home here will open next Tuesday morning, according to Col. C. V. Burton, superintendent.

Pupils are returning to the institution this week from places where they spent their summer vacation. Many of them from the camps established for the first time this year by Col. Burton for pupils who have no homes and would otherwise not be able to leave the Home.

Boys were encamped near Yellow Springs and the girls near Bellbrook. O. K. Probasco is superintendent of the Home schools.

LOST WALLET IS RETURNED

Xenian Finds Cash
Lost At Niagara Falls

David McKee, of Lachine, Que., is happier today than he was two weeks ago. McKee went to Niagara Falls on a vacation trip and the day he arrived lost his new wallet containing $125, all his vacation funds.

Mrs. Fred Haines, R. R. 7, Xenia, touring with her husband and family, was in Niagara, N. Y., for the day. The party stepped out of a store where souvenirs were on sale, and on the sidewalk, where hundreds had been walking over it, lay McKee's new wallet, open.

Mrs. Haines picked it up. Besides the bills, half of which were in Canadian and half in United States money, the wallet contained a picture of the owner, his name and address, and automobile license. As soon as the Haines party reached home, Mrs. Haines wrote to McKee. She received an immediate answer describing the lost wallet and its contents. McKee said that he had saved all year to accumulate a fund for the trip to Niagara and lost it the day he reached his destination. He asked Mrs. Haines to accept $10 as a reward.

The wallet was dispatched to its owner Tuesday.

HOME SCHOOLS WILL OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

School at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home here will open next Tuesday morning, according to Col. C. V. Burton, superintendent.

Pupils are returning to the institution this week from places where they spent their summer vacation, many of them from the camps established for the first time this year by Col. Burton for pupils who have no homes and would otherwise not be able to leave the Home.

Boys were encamped near Yellow Springs and the girls near Bellbrook, O. K. Probasco is superintendent of the Home schools.

PLANS GO FORWARD FOR DEDICATION OF NEW HOME BUILDINGS

Plans are going forward at the O. S. and S. O. Home for the dedication of the new hospital and two new cottages at the institution September 21, according to Col. C. V. Burton, superintendent.

Governor Myers Y. Cooper is expected to be a guest of the institution that day, and is scheduled to deliver the principal address. The consulting medical and surgical staff and the Greene County Medical Society will also be guests and will probably take part in ceremonies in connection with the opening of the hospital.

The hospital is now being equipped by the R. D. Adair furniture store, Xenia. It has a capacity of sixty-four beds. There are wards in each of two wings, each with twenty-eight bed capacity, private rooms and three rooms with two-bed capacity.

In addition the hospital includes a modernly equipped operating room, X-ray room, physiotherapy room and a completely equipped dental office. The building is of brick construction, all on the ground floor and replaces a frame hospital that was obsolete. Dr. A. C. Messenger is resident physician at the institution.

CEDARVILLE

Mr. McClelland Sterrett and bride of Columbus are spending a few days here with his grandmother, Mrs. Julia Sterrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bryan and Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson attended a birthday surprise party at Jamestown Friday evening, honoring Mr. R. D. Bryan who had reached his 73rd milestone.

Mrs. Harry Waddle and son Merle, Columbus, are staying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tarbox, who are on an extended trip to Texas. Miss Lillie Spencer of Xenia, who recently underwent an operation in the McClelland Hospital in Xenia, is improving and is also spending some time at the Tarbox home.

Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Jamieson and family, who have been spending two weeks in Illinois, returned home Friday.

spent the week visiting relatives in Madisonville, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peterson and little son of Frankfort, Ohio, have returned home after a visit with Mrs. Peterson's parents Judge and Mrs. S. C. Wright.

Mrs. Chalmers Elder and children of Darlington, Pa., who have been visiting here for a couple of weeks with friends have returned home.

Rev. Joseph Bennett and wife of Waynesville, O., were calling on friends here Friday.

Prof. Otto W. Kuehrmann and wife of Indianapolis, Ind., were here Tuesday, the guests of friends. Prof. Kuehrmann is head of the science department of Cedarville College.

Mr. Ed. Farris, wife and daughter, Mrs. Eula B. Speer and little daughter of Cleveland, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Farris this week.

Rev. S. M. Ingmire and family of Toledo, visited here Friday with friends. Rev. Ingmire is much improved in health, having been unable to fill the pulpit since December. Rev. Ingmire was formerly pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church here.

Mr. Marion Stormont, who is attending medical school at Western Reserve, Cleveland, was a passenger on the Pennsylvania train from Cleveland to Columbus last Sunday that was wrecked and sixty-nine persons injured but Mr. Stormont escaped. He is here at home for a two weeks' vacation.

Prof. J. Robb Harper, wife and son Robert of Wilmette, Ill., drove down from St. Joseph, Mich., where they have a summer cottage. They expect to join Prof. George Harper and family of Tucson, Arizona, in Dayton, Wednesday and return to Michigan. Prof. J. Robb Harper has been superintendent of schools in Wilmette for more than twenty-five years and Prof. George Harper is connected with the Tucson schools.

Rev. Orland M. Ritchie, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Ritchie, N. Main St., returned Wednesday from a two year trip to Europe. He was the winner of the Jamieson scholarship in the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary class of 1920 and so entitled to a year's study in Edinburgh, Scotland. He is now here for a short visit with his parents, also meeting many old time friends, having formerly lived in Clifton and graduated from Cedarville College in 1916.

Dr. W. R. McChesney returned home Tuesday from Cape Cod, Mass., where he spent a two weeks vacation with his brother-in-law, Rev. Thomas Turner and family at their summer cottage in Massachusetts. Mrs. McChesney and daughter will return home early in September.

NUN WRITES SCHOOL TEXT BOOKS; WILL BE USED THIS YEAR

Sister Frances of the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur, who for years has been a teacher in the parochial schools of the archdiocese, has written a set of text books which will be introduced in the archdiocesan school system this year. This is the first time that text books written by a teaching nun will be used in the school system.

The new adoption will be introduced in the first grades in September, according to the Rev. F. J. Bredestere, archdiocesan superintendent of schools. The new series is the Alpha Individual Arithmetics. Books for the succeeding grades will be introduced as fast as they come from the press. Announcement was made that the problem material is standardized on the basis of mental age rather than on chronological or school age. The series uses the analytic-synthetic approach to the development of the basic number combination with a view to correct habit formation.

Sister Frances, author of the series, will conduct a series of regional meetings for teachers in the first grades of the parochial schools during the next few weeks to explain the text book. A session will be held at Julianne High School, Dayton, September 11 at 1:30 p. m. for all first grade teachers of Montgomery, Greene, Clark and Madison counties. It is announced.

YELLOW SPRINGS

John H. Garlough, aged 74 years, died at 2 p. m. Saturday at his home on Center College St., after an illness of one week. He had been in failing health since December, when he had influenza which affected his heart. Mr. Garlough was secretary of the Clark Co. Mutual Insurance Co., for the past twenty-six years and had his office in Springfield. He was a splendid citizen, good neighbor and devout Christian man. He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church where he was active in the church work until his last illness. He is survived by his wife and three sons, Jay, J. Garlough of Holland, Mich., Torrence and Willis of his city. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church, burial in the Clifton Cemetery.

Mrs. Maude Moorman who has taught the second grade in the public school for seven years and who was elected for the present year has offered her resignation to the school board and left for Stanton, New Mexico, where she has accepted a position in the schools there. Mrs. Moorman and her son William who have been there for the past year will go to housekeeping in their new home that is now under construction.

The county convention of the W. C. T. U. will be held Friday in the First Methodist Church in Xenia. A cordial invitation is extended to all whether you are a member or not.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson, Ernest Johnson and Miss Leah Shook returned home Saturday from a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Garnett, Kansas. Mrs. Clara Stevenson returned with them and will visit at the Johnson home.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Brewer and Mr. H. R. Adams motored to Hillsboro, Wednesday where they spent the day with Mrs. Brewer's sister, Fred Kershner and mother spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burras in North Fairfield. Mrs. Burras returned home with them for a visit.

Miss Katherine Irene Rowan of Fairmount, W. Va., is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson.

Miss Esther Corry who has been attending school at Columbia University, New York, is home for a short visit. She will return to New York this fall where she has accepted a position teaching this winter.

Mrs. J. M. Linn and daughters, Mrs. O. S. Reed, Mrs. W. E. Guthrie and Miss Marie Guthrie of Bloomfield, Ia., are visiting their cousin, Miss Lillie Porterfield.

Dr. and Mrs. Hurlbut of Boston, Mass., are visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Dawson.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Diehl and children returned Sunday from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Hillsboro.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Currey entertained two tables of bridge Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Black and daughter of Long Beach, Calif. Those present were the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Black and Miss Eleanor Black. Mr. and Mrs. Orville Armstrong of Fairfield, and Miss Katherine Fitz of this city.

ALL FIXED UP NOW! New Goodrich Tires. This motorist knew his business when he sent for all the new rubber he'll need for months to come! Changing tires on the road is unpleasant in any weather . . . and this is no season to take chances. How are you fixed? See us for tires.

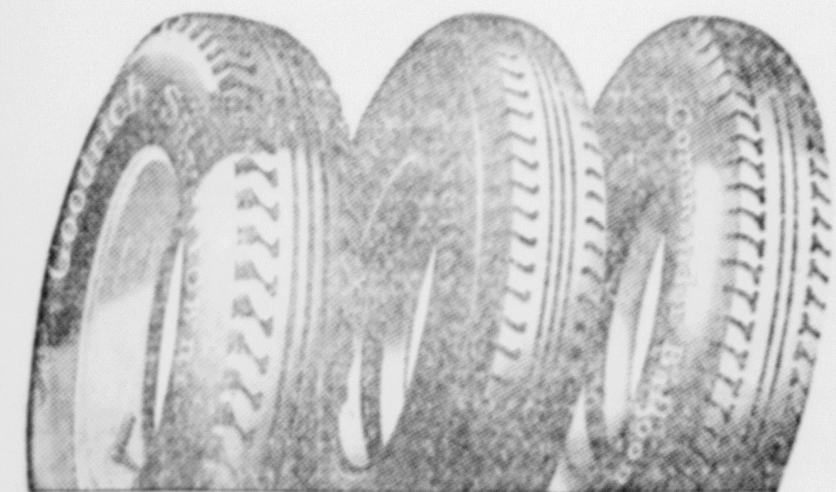

NOW'S THE TIME TO BUY, MR. CAR-OWNER! Even if we didn't have special prices in effect, you couldn't do better than buy new rubber right now! Because good tires now will carry you safely through the winter.

LABOR DAY'S coming. Last holiday of the summer. Last chance to get out for a week-end of driving . . .

Are you going to risk having it spoiled by tire trouble? Going to take a chance with winter not so far away, and new rubber needed for the bad weather that is coming very soon.

Well . . . don't take that chance! Because we've priced all of our tires at special low figures like those in the panel.

And they're all Goodrich Tires. Tires built upon a carcass of stretch-matched cord and cured by the famous Goodrich water-cure process. See them . . . they are real tire bargains.

Beauty From Alabama

When American legionnaires of Alabama got together at Mobile for their convention they decided Miss Dorothy Dugins, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., was the most beautiful bathing beauty present and promptly crowned her "Miss Alabama."

Billie Langenau, in charge of the files, tells Chatty that sometimes Jordan goes to lunch with Mr. "Van's" secretary, Agnes Herford. When Chatty tells Agnes the story, she adds to it, and says that Billie also said that Agnes and Jordan were crazy about each other. Agnes threatens to go to Billie with the story, and Chatty worries about it.

For she does not want to quarrel with Billie, who had arranged parties so that Chatty could meet Jordan outside the office. And she wishes that Agnes would lose her job and leave the office.

Then Willie Talcott, stenographer, tells her that Agnes and Mr. Van often lunch together, and Chatty decides to tell Mrs. Van about it. But her mother forbids her to.

Billie brings Chatty and Dave together outside the office, and is very friendly and kind to Chatty, lending her clothes, showing her how to do her hair, etc. Jordan begins to make love to Chatty, and finally comes to call at her house.

Chatty is ashamed of her poverty and of her young brother, Pud, who works evenings in a drug store, where he helps the owner sell alcohol for drinking purposes.

Chatty steals Agnes Herford's keys in order to search through her desk for a note that she sees Jordan give her. The note is a harmless one, but Chatty also finds Agnes' diary, filled with notes on Agnes' mild love affair with Mr. Van Nuys. She sends the pages of the diary to Mrs. Van Nuys, hoping that Agnes will be discharged before she has a chance to go to Mr. Van Nuys with Chatty's falsehood about Billie Langenau. Chatty, answering the telephone the next day in the absence of the regular operator, giggles when she hears Agnes telephoning her home about the keys which Chatty, herself, has dropped into a sewer.

Dave Jordan comes upon her when she is laughing to herself about it, to ask her about going out with him that night.

CHAPTER XV

Very little nonsense and love making went on in the busy offices of the Van Nuys company.

Mr. Van might take Agnes Herford out to lunch, George Mayhew might drive Billie Langenau home from work every night in the week. Winnie Talcott might be making dinner and dance "dates" with Jim Bowen every Saturday night, as everyone suspected her of doing.

But all of these things went on outside the office. During the work day everything was strictly business—as it is in most offices.

And so Dave did not linger for very long at Chatty's switchboard that noon.

"What do you want to do tonight?" he asked her. He was leaning over the back of her chair as he spoke, and one of his hands just touched her shoulder.

"Anything," Chatty answered, her breath coming thick and fast in her throat as it always did when he stood close to her. "So long as I'm with you—I don't care what we do or where we go."

She was ashamed of herself when she said things like that to him, when she showed him so plainly how much he meant to her. But she couldn't help saying them. They just slipped out, somehow or other.

"I wear my heart on my sleeve, don't I?" she asked him, tilting her head back to look up at him. "I should pretend I don't care whether I go out anywhere with you or not, shouldn't I?"

Dave shook his red head. "I like you the way you are—heart on your sleeve, or any other place," he said. "And I'll come for you at seven."

She nodded, and he went across to his own desk against the south wall of the main office, and very near the door of Agnes Herford's room.

Presently Agnes came out into the office.

"Hello, Dave Jordan," Chatty heard her say. "I've done the sill-iest thing—I've lost all my office keys. You haven't seen them, have you, by any chance?"

He shook his head, jumped up and offered to help her hunt for them.

"No—I've sent for a locksmith, and he'll be here soon," Agnes said. "But I've wasted the whole morning, trying to get that desk open and Mr. Van's personal letter file open—and he's so upset!"

Chatty giggled to herself. "He's calm compared to what he will be when Mrs. Van gets through reading that diary!" she said to herself. . . . She wondered if Mrs. Van would come rushing down to the office and make a scene.

"I hope she does!" Chatty said to herself. "And I hope she throws Agnes out on her ear!"

She hated Agnes because she had called her "the silly little Chatter-ton."

She hated her because she was such a good friend of Dave Jordan and because she was standing there, on the other side of the office door, talking to Dave.

She hated her most of all because she was afraid of her—afraid that she would go to Mr. Van with the story that Billie Langenau had been talking about her behind her back.

"And if Billie finds out that I told a lie about her," Chatty told herself, "she'll never speak to me again! And Dave will find out that I told it, too!"

She grew cold all over at the thought of Dave Jordan finding out about that story that she had told Agnes. It would mean the end of his liking for her. The end of his friendship that was not friendship, but something more—something that made him take her in his arms, hold her close to him, and kiss her as if he never would let her go.

"But if Mrs. Van starts to make trouble about that diary, Agnes won't get much of a chance to go to Mr. Van with any little tattling at all," thought Chatty. "She'll be too busy trying to explain what she and Mr. Van were doing, keeping lunch dates with each other."

And all afternoon she fairly prayed that Mrs. Van would come down to the office to have Agnes discharged that very day.

Nothing happened. Everything went on just as usual in the big, busy offices.

The locksmith arrived at one o'clock and opened Agnes' desk.

At half past one Mr. Van "knocked off" work and went away to play golf with some friends at the Sunnyside Country club.

At two o'clock Agnes went to keep an appointment with her dentist.

At three she called up to say she had a tooth pulled and that she was going home to go to bed.

And then at four o'clock—Mrs. Van called up:

"This is Mrs. Van Nuys. I'd like to speak to my husband."

Chatty's eyes flashed with excitement.

"Mr. Van Nuys has gone for the day," she said.

"Then I'll speak to Miss Herford!"

Chatty drew a long breath. "She's read the diary!" she told herself, with enormous satisfaction.

Aloud she said sweetly: "Miss

SEEK DOG POISONER IN DEATH OF CHILD A dog poisoner is believed to have been responsible for the death of two-year-old Richard Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moore, Harveysburg, Clinton County, who died Tuesday at noon, fifteen minutes after eating a piece of bread spread with a strychnine mixture which was found in the yard.

Coroner J. C. Gilmore of Clinton County is investigating. Twenty dogs are said to have been poisoned in the village in the last two months. The poison has been spread on bits of bread and thrown in yards, alleys and the streets. Cats and chickens have also been victims, according to village authorities. Identity of the poisoner, thought to be a crank, is unknown.

LEARNED TO SPEAK ENGLISH SWIFTLY TOLEDO, O., Aug. 28.—Under certain stimuli a person may learn to speak the English language speedily.

A resident of this city stood before Judge Len Donovan to answer to a charge of disturbance. When the complainant had finished, Prosecutor Dudley Smith asked the defendant if he had anything to say. He shook his head, shrugged his shoulders, displayed the palms of his hands to demonstrate that English was something you put on a billboard, maybe, but not so far as he was concerned—a language.

"Say, do you want to go to jail?" demanded Smith. "No, no, no, I should say not," the defendant fairly shouted. The sentence was $25 and costs.

But nothing happened. Everything went on just as usual in the big, busy offices.

The locksmith arrived at one o'clock and opened Agnes' desk. At half past one Mr. Van "knocked off" work and went away to play golf with some friends at the Sunnyside Country Club.

At two o'clock Agnes went to keep an appointment with her dentist. At three she called up to say she had had a tooth pulled and that she was going home to go to bed.

And then at four o'clock—Mrs. Van called up.

"This is Mrs. Van Nuys. I'd like to speak to my husband."

Chatty's eyes flashed with excitement.

"Mr. Van Nuys has gone for the evening," she said.

"Then I'll speak to Miss Herford!"

Chatty drew a long breath. "She's read the diary," she told herself, with enormous satisfaction.

Aloud she said sweetly: "Miss ty's head—then rinsing it and washing it again as carefully as any beauty parlor hairdresser could have done it.

"Rub it dry while I wash my own, Chat," she said. "And I'll spray it with some of that new sweet pea perfume that George gave me on Valentine's Day—"

"That reminds me—where is George tonight?" Chatty wanted to know. "He usually drives you home, doesn't he?"

Billie nodded, gasping a little as the water from the spray she was using went into her nose and mouth. "He had an engagement tonight," she said.

"Where?" asked Chatty, who naturally liked to know everything about everybody and not because it was any of her business, but just because she was naturally curious.

"I don't know."

"Maybe it was with a girl," suggested Chatty.

"I guess not," Billie did not sound at all disturbed. "I don't believe George chases after girls much, except me, and we're just very good friends."

"Oh, don't be so sure of him," Chatty's voice cut in crisply.

She had firmly made up her mind weeks ago that she wouldn't hurt Billie by telling her about seeing George and the Clinging Vine at the movies together.

But she forgot that now . . . She had a piece of news she had been keeping to herself for a long time, and she was fairly bursting to tell it.

Besides, she wanted to see how Billie would take it. She wanted to see if Billie really was as indifferent to George Mayhew as she pretended to be—to George as a sweetheart instead of the mere friend she always said he was.

"I saw your Great Friend cut with a blonde the other night!" she came out with her news. "He was at the movies with a girl who was just simply COVERED with diamonds—and if you don't believe me, you can ask my mother about it. She was with me—and they sat right beside us. Your precious Platonic Friend and his sweetie!"

Billie did her best to take what she had heard calmly. "Oh, I believe you," she began bravely, and then all at once she hid her face in the bath towel with which she had been drying her pretty hair. She did not make a sound.

Chatty knew that she was crying. "Why, Billie!" she faltered, and went across the tiny steam filled room and put her arms around her friend's shaking shoulders. "Why—Billie—you mustn't cry! I didn't know you'd feel like this about it, or I'd never, NEVER have said a word about George and that girl! I thought you always said that you and he were just FRIENDS. Oh, the way you said it with a word to you!"

She really was sorry, now that she had told Billie about George and the girl . . . But wasn't it better, after all, for Billie to know the truth about George? And wasn't it better for Billie to realize, herself, that she was in love with him? Of course it was!

"You're crazy about George Mayhew," Billie Langenau's she said loudly, "and you'd just better face the fact! You're in love with him and you're married! Now, then, you'd better make up your mind what you're going to do about it."

Billie stood up suddenly. "Please promise me that you won't talk about this at the office, Chat," she said, quietly, still covering her face with the towel. "Especially about my being married!"

Chatty sniffed. "What do you think I am? A gossip like Winnie Talcott?" she asked. "It hurts my feelings to have you talk like that to me, Billie! You know I NEVER talk about you! You know I'm a friend of yours—a good friend!"

And she marched out of the flat.

INSPECTOR VISITS RELIEF CORPS HERE

Mrs. Charles Metzger, department inspector of the Women's Relief Corps, and eighteen members of A. L. Brown Corps, Chillicothe, were guests Wednesday afternoon of David Lee Corps, No. 345, newly formed organization here.

Most of the afternoon was spent by the inspector in giving instructions to the new corps regarding the work of the order. An invitation was extended to the local women to make a return visit to Brown Corps, by Mrs. Knox Amos, president of the Chillicothe branch.

The Theater

Warner Bros. will do something out of the ordinary when they produce "Show of Shows," a Vitaphone all-color talkie, in which about 100 headliners of stage, opera, screen and vaudeville will take part.

Already fifty-four leading celebrities whose names are open sesame to popular, have been signed up. The cast includes Georges Carpentier, France's contribution to the prize ring. Others so far engaged are: John Barrymore, Frank Fay, Alberta Vaughn, Alice White, Dolores and Helene Costello, Beatrice Lillie, Marilyn Miller, Albert Gran, Wheeler Oakman, Irene Bordone, Jack Buchanan, Monte Blue, Ted Lewis and his band; Myrna Loy, Grant Withers, Sally O'Neill, Lila Lee, Tully Mar-lor fought with the Union in the Civil War. Others in the cast are John Boles, who had the male lead in "The Desert Song"; Vivienne Segal, Joe E. Brown, Marie Wells, Ruby Cameron, Addie Gribben, Edward Martindel, Sam Hardy and Robert Pertty.

Mrs. George Arliss, known on the stage as Florence Arliss, will play opposite her famous husband in his talkie version of "Disraeli", his greatest stage starring piece. She will appear as Lady Beaconsfield, the part she portrayed on the stage.

Beatrice Lillie

Beatrice Lillie is the most popular entertainer that ever left England to amuse theatre-goers of this country. Now, she is slated as one of the stars in the 100-star-cast of "Show of Shows" which Warner Bros. are now preparing.

shall, Marian Nixon, Patsy Ruth Miller, Noah Beery, Winnie Lightner, Lloyd Hamilton, Ben Turpin, Harry Gribbon, Edna Murphy, Marion Byron, Viola Dana, Loretta Young, Lee Morgan, Lupino Lane, Alice Day, Bert Roach, Molly O'Day, Shirley Mason, Bull Montana, the Ike Rose Midgets and the Adagio Dancers, Adamae Vaughn, Anders Randolph, Jack Curtis, Philo McCullough and Otto Matieson.

Ann Pennington, of the beautiful knees, makes her Vitaphone bow in two Warner Bros. pictures, "Is Everybody Happy?" in which she plays opposite Ted Lewis and "Gold Diggers of Broadway", a musical version of the Broadway stage success, "The Gold Diggers." This is not Miss Pennington's film debut. Three years ago she left the cast of George White's "Scandals" to play opposite Tom Mix, then at the peak of his career in "Westerns". Miss Pennington was born in Camden, N. J., and made her first stage appearance in Philadelphia at the age of twelve years, dancing in vaudeville as a member of the Shelley Trio. She spent two seasons with Ziegfeld "Follies" and two with George White's "Scandals" and has appeared in many other important stage engagements. She weighs 106 pounds and is just under five feet in height and has brown hair and eyes.

Immediately after she was settled in the hangar, repairs were started on the tail, which was ripped when the craft skidded over tension wires when the dirigible started from Los Angeles.

The growing crowd had shown more and more enthusiasm as the ground crew started dragging the big dirigible into its hangar and once it was settled in there, the enthusiasm bubbled over.

The spectators broke through the first line of marine guards and surged towards the dirigible from which the passengers were starting to alight. Cheers roared over the big airfield every time one of the around the world voyagers appeared at an open window or started down the steps from the gondola.

A second marine guard was formed and held back the fast growing throngs, not to hamper the final landing work and debarkation of the passengers.

When Dr. Eckener appeared at the control room the crowd cheered—a tribute to the daring carelessness the German skipper had shown in guiding the craft over uncharted air lanes.
